U.S. Intends To Resume Subsurface Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will start a new series of small underground nuclear tests, perhaps before the end of this year. It will be for the dual purpose of developing a workable test detection system and pushing development of peaceful uses of atomic energy.

President Eisenhower disclosed this Saturday at his Gettysburg farm, where he is spending the weekend.

The fact that the United States intends to resume subsurface testing already has been disclosed in previous official announcements by the Atomic Energy Commission and other agencies. Underground testing, as well as all other types, had been suspended under a moratorium observed by the United States and the Soviet Union, so far as is known, since late in 1958. The new series would release no radioactivity into the air, the White House said.

The White House announcement augmented by information from the Defense Department, provided more detailed information on plans for the test shots and the experimental monitoring stations which will operate on the principle of seismographic stations for recording natural earthquakes.

One indirect purpose of the presidential announcement Saturday may have been to prepare for a subject which will come up at the summit meetings in Paris May 16 and for sessions at Geneva starting May 11. The official announcement could serve the purpose of putting the U.S. position and intentions on record in advance of the summit session.

The White House announcement said the President had approved "a major expansion of the present research and development toward an improved capability to detect and identify underground nuclear explosions."

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the forthcoming series "will not be weapons tests as such" but is designed only for developing a detection system and for promoting nonmilitary use of atomic energy. The AEC works with both actual weapons and with so-called devices useful only for providing scientific data on detonation. Presumably, some of these devices, of comparatively small force, will be used in the deep underground shots.

The United States proposed early this year the international banning of all nuclear tests except subsurface shots which would produce an earth shock of less than 4.75 rating on an earthquake scale—a light earthquake.

The White House statement said that in previous sessions at Geneva Soviet negotiators had concurred in the proposal that underground nuclear explosions should be conducted to improve the capability of a control and detection network. They also showed willingness to discuss at the Geneva meeting beginning May 11 the subject of seismic detection, the White House said.

Scientists are in disagreement about whether all underground explosions could be detected. Methods might be used to soften earth shocks from small explosions, some scientists argue. One of the purposes of the U.S. tests will be to check up on that point.

The experiments, conducted under the code name Project Vela Uniform, will cost about 76 million dollars. Of that, $8,535,000 is provided in the present fiscal year budget. Hagerty said about 66 million more will be needed in the coming year, starting July 1, with about half of it in Defense Department funds and half for the AEC.

The AEC has said that the shaft for the test shots will be about 1,200 feet deep, with a lateral tunnel leading off from the bottom to a distance of 1,100 feet. Explosions in that tunnel will provice data, will produce radioisotopes needed in research and medicine, produce heat which can be used in the production of electrical energy in power-development studies, and provide information on the use of atomic explosions for blasting purposes.

The twister demolished much of the town. At least 30 persons were killed and 250 injured by a rash of the twisters that smashed into Oklahoma and Arkansas. Witnesses said that hail as big as baseballs fell. (NEA Telephoto)

W. Virginia's Wordy Demo Preferential Race Nears Climax

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia's turbulent Democratic presidential primary campaign roared toward a climax Saturday with opposing candidates clouting each other and the Republicans.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), still regarded as the likely front runner in Tuesday's voting, whaled away at the "spending binge" he said Kennedy is carrying on in a last-days effort to blanket the state.

Kennedy harped again on his contention that Humphrey can't win the nomination and that a vote for him in reality will help the Massachusetts senator's other opponents.

One of these, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, invaded the state principal speaker at a Democratic fund raising dinner at Clarksburg, where Humphrey would be on the platform.

Kennedy planned to hop to Omaha, Neb., where one of his rivals, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), was to be a chief speaker at a similar dinner. Kennedy is unopposed in the Nebraska Democratic primary Tuesday.

Unofficial forecasts were that more than 350,000 West Virginia Democrats may turn out Tuesday to choose between Kennedy and Humphrey in a popularity contest that is not binding on the state's 25-vote national convention delegation.

But the test of whether Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, can command a majority in a state that is overwhelmingly Protestant may go a long way toward determining whether he gets his party's presidential nomination.

As the time for Tuesday's voting approached, there was relative silence in the core of the storm that has swirled over the religious issue.

Kennedy repeatedly has said that he supports separation of church and state and would not be deterred by any obligations as a Catholic in carrying out his duties as president. Humphrey, a Congregationalist, does not men-

'The Joneses' Relax In Sun On Royal Yacht Britannia

LONDON (AP)—Relaxed on a gently swelling sea, Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones lazed in the sunshine Saturday aboard the royal yacht Britannia taking them on a honeymoon.

Just before 11 a.m., the glass doors of the royal suite swung open and the bride of a day and her handsome husband stepped out on the sundeck.

Margaret wore a red sweater and a red skirt. Tony, in best nautical fashion, sported a blue blazer and white slacks.

Clearly they chose their outfits to match their honeymoon yacht. Britannia, dippling gracefully into the swell, made a magnificent picture in her blue paint with red at the waterline.

Even the deck chairs matched the color scheme—a blue upright chair for Tony, a red chaise longue for Meg. In between stood a table for drinks.

As this reporter's plane flew overhead, five flags streamed bravely in the breeze. Britannia plunged on toward the Caribbean at 20 knots.

The Union Jack flew at the bow, the Royal Navy's ensign at the stern. Margaret's personal standard, flown wherever she happens to be, had the place of honor on the mainmast.

Despite the ship's complement of about 269 men, the royal honeymooners had all the privacy they could wish for.

The sundeck is screened from the rest of the ship. And it seems that Britannia's crew spends most of its time below decks.

Back in London, people seemed reluctant to forget the splendors of Friday's wedding at Westminster Abbey.

Immense crowds lined up to file through the Abbey sanctuary and gaze at the altar decked in priceless gold and silver plate.

They had one unexpected thrill. Lying on the altar steps was Margaret's modest bridal bouquet of tiny white orchids. Margaret gave it to the abbey dean, Dr. Eric Abbot, at the wedding reception and asked him to place it there.

Stalemate Confronts State Legislature On Police Reform

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Danger of stalemate confronts the special session of the Illinois Legislature as it takes up Chicago police reform Tuesday.

After all other business is done, a deadlock on the touchy reform issue could be the cue for Republican Gov. Stratton to dissolve the session by order.

Chicago's Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley, who comes to the Assembly with Police Supt. O. W. Wilson to testify Tuesday, has disdained Stratton's police reform bill. The witnesses go first before the whole House.

Stratton told the opening session of the Legislature last Tuesday that Chicago police should be placed under a five-man merit board like that governing state police, with the power to hire and fire. Administration bills to set this up to supplant the Civil Service Commission are on amendment stage in the House.

Daley said he would agree only to a bill to legalize the appointment of two suburbanites to the present Chicago board, created by the Chicago City Council after some police were alleged to be in league with burglars.

Unless Stratton or Daley or both bend, neither seems likely to win passage of their bills. Stratton has support of the Republican-controlled Senate. Daley relies on a slight Democratic majority in the House.

Stratton might be called upon to exercise the governor's power to prorogue. The Legislature normally determines when it shall adjourn. But if it can't agree on this, the executive has the power to step in and order lawmakers to halt meetings.

Gov. Dwight Green ended the 1946 special session on rent control when the Senate informed him there was hopeless disagreement.

At passage stage on the House calendar is Stratton's proposal for 35 million dollars more for poor relief. Although the bill has opposition, it seems likely to pass this week to Senate consideration.

The House is also slated to hold a committee of the whole hearing on proposals to nominate justices of the peace by convention instead of by primary elections and to require reports on their cases and income so salary schedules may be fixed fairly.

However, this may be delayed if the questioning of Daley is prolonged.

The Senate, which took only minor action last week although confronted with a similar slate of bills, is expected to speed up action starting Tuesday.

Benson Must Continue Wheat Control Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will be required by law to take action next week to continue the present sharply criticized wheat control program for the 1961 crop.

Under farm law, he must set federal marketing quotas and planting allotments for the following year's crop by May 15. Inasmuch as the date comes on Sunday, he is expected to act by Friday.

The present program has been condemned by many farm leaders and by both Democrats and Republicans because it has failed to prevent the accumulation of a record large surplus of the grain that costs taxpayers heavily to store.

President Eisenhower has urged Congress to enact a new program. Last year Congress passed one, but it was vetoed by the President. This year Congress has not yet passed a bill, but one has been approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

A new program could be put into effect for next year even after Benson sets the old one in operation. But action would have to come within a few weeks.

A new government estimate on the prospective size of this year's winter wheat crop will be issued Tuesday. It could help influence Congress to get busy with wheat legislation if it showed a further upturn over previous forecasts. On the basis of the past estimates, the crop would add to present surpluses.

Nixon Jumps Into Political Fight Over Medical Care Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon jumped into the middle of the hot political fight over medical care for the aged Saturday, claiming bills backed by many Democrats "Would open the door for socialized medicine."

Nixon said tying health care for the aged to social security "inevitably would head in the direction of herding the ill and elderly into institutions whether they desired this or not."

He argued in favor of the Eisenhower administration's own health program saying it "deserves the support of all Americans."

The administration proposal, offered by Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming, calls for a federal-state health program for the aged, unconnected with social security and encouraging private insurance.

Eight Republican senators led by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) are pushing their own separate proposal. They asked the Senate Labor Committee for an early hearing on their bill to set up government-paid health care for the elderly.

On Friday 16 Democratic senators—including four presidential hopefuls—introduced a broad plan of their own, which would cover social security pensioners and other men and women over 65.

Nixon criticized the bill by Rep. Aime J. Forand (D-RI) to limit a health care program to persons retired under social security. This bill already has been rejected by the House Ways and Means Committee, but is backed by organized labor. Nixon said it "provides no coverage whatever for four million aged people who are not covered by social security."

Half of those under social security have incomes of less than $1,000 a year. Nixon said they would get protection under the administration bill which he said would apply to some 12½ million persons over 65 "who do not have the resources or the opportunity to obtain adequate health insurance coverage."

Nixon said the administration bill permits eligible persons to take part or stay out, while the Forand proposal "compels those on social security to participate in the program regardless of whether they need it or want it."

U2 Keeps Tabs On Soviet Atomic Tests, Editor Says

NEW YORK (AP) —George Carroll, New York Journal-American aviation editor, terms the U2 airplane a "hush-hush" craft which keeps tabs on Soviet atomic tests.

The U2 is the kind of plane flown by the U.S. pilot the Soviets say was shot down over their territory.

Carroll is an Air Force reserve lieutenant colonel. In an article last Nov. 24, being republished in the Sunday editions of the newspaper, Carroll wrote that "Few people ever have heard of an airplane called the U2. It's done quite a job, though, for the American people."

U2s have flown hush-hush missions in parts of the world," Carroll wrote. "There are unconfirmed reports the Russians shot one down over or near Red territory.

Airport Welcome In Havana Turns Into Near Riot

HAVANA (AP) — Wild shooting broke out at Havana International Airport Saturday as a welcome for a Cuban political leader turned into a riotious anti-Communist demonstration.

At least one person was wounded by the gunfire.

The clash developed between supporters of Aurelian Sanchez Arango, head of a now inactive political organization called AAA, and a group of university students. Some members of pro-Communist squads were identified among the student group.

Sanchez Arango had just arrived here from Venezuela by way of New York. In Venezuela he attended a prodemocracy congress, where some criticism of the Castro government was expressed.

The pro-Castro Cuban press has bitterly assailed Sanchez Arango for attending the congress.

A crowd estimated by airport officials at about 1,000 had gathered at the terminal prior to Sanchez Arango's arrival. Tension mounted when an announcement was made that his flight would be delayed.

Fighting broke out outside the terminal building as Sanchez Arango supporters, wearing identification badges, began shouting the name of the political leader and sang the Cuban national anthem.

Clubs appeared suddenly in the hands of a number of the participants and shots rang out. Witnesses said both sides appeared to have guns.

Sanchez Arango meantime had descended from the plane and received a tumultuou welcome from a crowd on the other side of the terminal. But after checking through customs, his departure was blocked by the demonstration still seething in front of the building.

When the outburst finally subsided to the shouting stage, Sanchez Arango got into a car and drove off through the crowds.

After Sanchez Arango's departure police had to race back and forth in the crowd putting down isolated fights.

Snow Ties Up Cars, In Michigan And Wisconsin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hundreds of autos were stalled in wintry snow Saturday, and highway crews mushed plows along buried roads in upper Michigan and northern Wisconsin.

The Weather Bureau warned of the possibility of night frost or freeze in the upper Mississippi Valley.

The wet weather slogged eastward Saturday in a wide band extending from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, with snow at the north flank and rain in the south.

Snow up to 8 inches deep accumulated in the Ishpeming area of upper Michigan, and northern Wisconsin had 4 to 7 inches. Phelps, Wis., near the northern Michigan border measures 7 inches. Rhinelander counted 5 inches.

To the south, a cold front loosed rain from the Great Lakes to the central Gulf Coast and the Southeast. Amounts were heavy in some localities. Crossville, Tenn., got 1.20 inches in six hours.

To the west, there was an area of off-and-on rain and showers from the Pacific Northwest and northern California into Montana.

Concedes Accuracy Of Much Of Nikita's Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States admitted Saturday night that a high altitude American jet plane made an intelligence flight over the Soviet Union as charged by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The State Department said, however, that the flight was not authorized by Washington officials.

The statement was issued at the State Department by press officer Lincoln White. It declared that that was no authorization from any authority in Washington "for any such flight as described by Mr. Khrushchev."

It then said:

"Nevertheless, it appears that in endeavoring to obtain information now concealed behind the Iron Curtain a flight over Soviet territory was probably undertaken by an unarmed civilian U2 plane."

That is the type of single engine high-flying jet aircraft which Khrushchev announced was shot down by a Soviet rocket near Sverdlovsk in central Russia last Sunday.

Khrushchev reported Saturday that the pilot, 30-year-old Francis G. Powers, was captured after he bailed out and might be brought to trial.

Khrushchev said Powers was flying from a base in Pakistan across the width of the Soviet Union to a base in Norway for the purpose of taking pictures of Soviet defense installations.

In response to reporters' questions White said that the statement was cleared with the President, who is at his Gettysburg farm for the weekend.

The action came after lengthy conferences in the State Department.

These involved not only Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other top diplomatic officials but also officials from outside the department.

Khrushchev charged that Powers, a former U.S. Air Force pilot, worked for the Central Intelligence Agency.

The chief of that agency, Allen W. Dulles, was not mentioned at the State Department as being involved in the consultations although it seems certain he was consulted.

The statement raised many questions which State Department officials for the moment at least did not answer for newsmen.

Some of these questions concerned the effects of the government admission on Powers' prospects in Soviet captivity.

Presumably the Washington government will notify Moscow officially that Powers did make an unauthorized flight and will seek through diplomatic channels to intervene in his behalf.

Officials were red faced in explaining to reporters that their earlier statements on this case, insisting that the U2 was on a weather survey flight, were issued in good faith and based on the best information available here at that time.

When Khrushchev broke the news Thursday that a U.S. craft had been downed, the State Department put out a statement indicating the disappearance of an unarmed weather study craft operating out of Adana, Turkey. "During the flight of this plane," that report said, "the pilot reported difficulty with his oxygen equipment.

"It is entirely possible that, having a failure in the oxygen equipment which could result in the pilot losing consciousness, the plane continued on automatic pilot for a considerable distance and accidentally violated Soviet air space."

On the same day, it was implied the missing craft may have been one of a fleet operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for study of the upper atmosphere.

The State Department and the NASA had said Thursday that the plane, if it violated Soviet air space, did so accidentally.

The implication of the State Department officials argument

Khrushchev Says Pilot Confesses Spying For U.S.

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Saturday Francis G. Powers, pilot of a U. S. high-altitude jet shot down by rocket in the Urals last Sunday, has confessed he was spying. The Premier submitted film, money, weapons and an unused suicide kit as proof and indicated the flier will be tried.

Khrushchev waved pictures before a shouting, applauding Parliament — the Supreme Soviet — in support of his charge that the 30-year-old pilot was photographing Soviet military bases and industrial installations for the U. S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Decorations were reported awarded promptly by the Supreme Soviet to 18 officers and men for destruction of the plane.

Tass announced the top Order of the Red Banner was awarded Maj. Mikhail Voronov, Capt. Nikolai Sheludko and Lt. Sergi Safronov. These three apparently were the key officers of the rocket unit involved. The Soviet news agency said the others got gold medals for valor and for combat services.

"This time the thief was caught red-handed," he said... "We are going to decorate those soldiers who shot down this plane. We are proud of the fact that they fulfilled their duty."

Khrushchev hinted that the American airman, who escaped by parachute when his speedy Lockheed U2 was hit, may be tried for espionage.

"I think it will be correct to pose a question about the bringing of the pilot before a court," he said, "in order that the public itself may become convinced of the actions undertaken by the United States provoking the Soviet Union with a view to inflaming the atmosphere, brushing aside even the successes which had been achieved in the easing of international tension."

Khrushchev dismissed as a fabrication the U.S. State Department report that Powers—a Lockheed test pilot from Pound, Va.—was on a weather research mission from Adana, Turkey, when his plane vanished.

Enlarging on the incident that shadows the Big Four summit conference opening a week from Monday, the Soviet Premier gave his account of what happened.

(A statement released by the U. S. State Department said an unarmed civilian aircraft probably made an information-gathering flight over the Soviet Union, but denied such a flight as described by Khrushchev was authorized by anyone in Washington.

(Official spokesmen in Oslo denied knowledge of any intended flight to Norway, and authoritative sources in Pakistan denied the plane took off from Peshawar.

Powers flew from Turkey April 27 to Peshawar, Pakistan, then took off Sunday for a flight across Soviet territory toward a U.S. base at Bodo, Norway, he said. Khrushchev declared Powers was flying at an altitude of 20,000 meters—more than 12 miles — when he was downed near Sverdlovsk in the Urals.

That is deep in Soviet territory 1,300 miles north of the Pakistani border and 1,800 miles northeast of Adna.

Both the pilot, "alive and well," and the wreckage of the plane were reported brought to Moscow. Khrushchev announced earlier last week that the plane had been brought down by a remarkable rocket.

Khrushchev quoted Powers as saying: "I had to take off from the airdrome at Peshawar in Pakistan to cross the state frontier of the U.S.S.R. and to fly across Soviet territory to Norway to the airdrome at Bodo. I had to fly over definite points in the U.S.S.R. Of them, I remember Murmansk and Archangel. During the flight over Soviet territory I had to switch some apparatus on and off over definite landmarks which were shown on a map. I think my flight over Soviet territory was for the collection of information on Soviet guided missiles and radar stations."

Khrushchev told the deputies the plane was rigged with a demolition charge that should have been triggered by a catapult ejection device when the pilot bailed

Roundtable Hears Paper On Agriculture

The story of agriculture in this section during the Civil War was told Friday night when the Jacksonville Civil War Roundtable met at Tanner library, Illinois College.
The speaker was Cecil Tendick, farm editor of the Journal Courier.

This program concluded Roundtable activities until next October. Eight members will utilize the summer months to prepare papers for the next club year.

Tendick built his paper about the diary of John Edward Young, a Menard county farmer who kept a faithful record during the war years. It told in an accurate and colorful way the trials and triumphs of the average farmer from 1861-1865, a period when the average farmer got extremely wealthy, how he enhanced his standard of living, and how he was hard hit when the bottom of the commodity market literally fell out after the war, but his taxes and other operating costs stayed at their high levels—and even got higher.

The paper told that in 1860 there were 2,211 farmers in Morgan county and that they cultivated an average of 44 acres. Today the farmers of Morgan county will raise 240,000 acres of corn, soybeans, wheat and oats.

It also told of Jonathan Baldwin Turner of Jacksonville running a wagonload of Osage orange seed from Texas to Illinois—through both the rebel and union lines, of General Benjamin Harrison Grierson and his contacts with farmers while he was running a general store in Meredosia, and of the political activities of General John McClernand.

"The commercial farm that we know today was born during the Civil War," the speaker said. "It was during those years that Illinois became a veritable bread basket, a distinction it has ever since maintained."

Attending Roundtable for the first time were Harry Anthony and W. H. Battershell of Roodhouse.

Store managers, merchandising, buying, advertising, sales promotion and personnel specialists presented information on the history, philosophy and policies of the retail firms during the afternoon. Students reported their experiences of the day at a banquet at Baxter hall Thursday evening. Retail hosts, faculty members and guests attended.

Herb Thompson, field representative of Illinois Retail Merchants Association, education division, helped to coordinate the program Thursday. A similar program has been used in Decatur, Bloomington and Rockford.

EAT OUTDOORS WITH INDOOR COMFORT

Soon the beckoning smile of summer will lure us out of doors, make us aware once again of the resplendent beauty that is ours to enjoy right in our own back yards. We'll want to stay outdoors, to drink in a full measure of summer's beauty — we won't even want to go indoors for meals. AND, we don't have to! Eating outdoors during the summer months is becoming increasingly popular. Whether it is in a tiny patio, a spacious garden, or a backyard barbecue doesn't matter. What does matter is that wherever your outdoor eatspot is, it should be easily accessible, simple to maintain, and offer the maximum of comfort.

The patio dining room sketched above is close to the kitchen for obvious reasons. Table top is synthetic marble, and chairs are upholstered with plastic fabric — both may be wiped clean with the whisk of a damp cloth. Chairs are light weight, can be used in other parts of the house and garden when, as, and if needed. Cement patio floor is easily swept.

Wheelable lounge chairs with adjustable backs invite relaxation. Bright, colorful cushions (also plastic covered) add a gay note to the setting.

When you select your outdoor dining chairs, consider the possibility of using them for other purposes — like extra pullup chairs for indoor entertaining. We offer you many versatile models that will blend amiably with your other furnishings Well constructed pieces that make a point of style.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—The butcher hog market overcame an early setback this week and finished strong to 25 cents higher, the first advance in three weeks.

Shipper interests were rather active throughout the week as supplies declined slightly from a week ago. However, buyers sorted offerings rather freely in order to obtain choicest grade at top prices of $17 on two days.

The week's cattle supply was largely slaughter steers and that class was as much as 50 cents lower with most of the setback on choice grade and better.

Offerings were up about 10 per cent and for the 12 major markets they were the largest since January.

The sheep supply consisted mainly of old crop slaughter lambs but the supply was down about 30 per cent from last week and prices were steady to 50 cents higher.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA) — Following is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

tion the issue at all except to decry its injection into the campaign.

Campaigning with his wife and two sons, Humphrey took note of Washington reports that Vice President Richard M. Nixon thinks Kennedy will win in the state and thus sew up the Democratic nomination.

MOST GRAINS FINISH WEEK WITH GAINS

CHICAGO (AP) — Influences in the grain futures market this week were generally of a minor nature with most interest centering on notices of intention to deliver on May contracts in the pits.

A few contracts, notably May wheat, fluctuated in fairly broad ranges; but most prices finished a little higher than a week ago. The outstanding exception was May wheat, which declined rather steadily after climbing to its highest peak of the season on Monday.

With trade expiring on all May contracts on the 20th, offers to deliver corn and soybeans were rather liberal but only small mounts circulated further on retenders. No tenders were made on wheat, oats or rye.

Profit-taking appeared to be the major brake on May wheat after it had extended a two-week advance to about six cents. Although brokers talked of the likelihood that short interests would be on the defensive in the closing days of that contract, long interest took the initiative despite almost daily reports that very little grain was moving into commercial positions in the Southwest.

Export business which had been fairly brisk early in the week slackened toward the close. At that time, only a few small additional overseas purchases were seen for the immediate future.

A good deal of bearish talk also went the rounds on soybeans, but it was largely ignored as prices held steady to firm on most days. Private advices said that all or nearly all the stocks still held on farms are certain to move to market before the end of the month. Government loans on soybeans become due then and opinion was freely expressed that current prices are sufficiently attractive to justify a large volume of redemptions.

Against that possibility it is believed that farmers will sell already available supplies before running into competition of redeemed stocks.

Arrivals of cash corn for the week were heavier than for some time. With almost 1,000 cars ready available supplies before coming in, consequent hedge selling weakened prices at times.

At the end of the week, wheat was 3 cents a bushel lower on May to ¾ higher on new crop months, May $2.07¼-½; corn ¾ lower to 1 cent higher, May $1.17⅞-¾; oats ⅜ higher to ¼ lower, May 76¼; rye ¾-2½ higher, May $1.23⅜; soybeans ½-1 cent higher, May $2.13⅝-¾.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market survived an important technical test this week, rebounding from the level of the March lows.

Thanks to two sessions of fairly good advance, the market was up on average for the first time in four weeks.

But extreme caution prevailed after the two days of recovery. Volume for the week slipped to 13,955,505 shares from 14,972,960 the week before and was the lightest since the week ended April 2 when only 12,207,550 shares changed hands.

Among Dow theorists the March 8 close of 599.10 in the Dow Jones industrial average represented a "support level" which, if pierced, would mean a further sharp decline. Monday, the average fell to 599.61, just above the March 8 low. Tuesday, after some early irregularity, prices began to move up. The advance gathered steam as short sellers rushed to cover and traders hopped aboard the bandwagon.

Some further gains were made Wednesday but profits already were being taken and volume was slackening. The rebound was lacking in enthusiasm.

Thursday saw an irregular and cautious decline and Friday prices were mixed. On both days volume was the lightest since April 12.

Blue chips were at their best Tuesday and thereafter gave a hesitant performance. On that day, however, many of the "romance" stocks, not only in electronics but in bowling, vending and photography, began a rally that was to stretch until the week's end.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.80 to 211.50.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 5.92 to 607.62.

Most active stocks this week on the New York Stock Exchange was American Motors, up ¼ at 26⅝ on 258,100 shares. Most active on the American Stock Exchange was Pentron Electronics, unchanged at 5⅞ on 187,800 shares.

The bond markets rallied late this week, after months of sluggish drifting, at the first definite signs of easier money conditions.

Volume for the week declined to $24,256,000 par value on the big board from $26,510,000 the previous week and $31,884,600 a year ago.

U.S. Admits Unarmed Plane On Spy Mission

Saturday was that someone somewhere abroad had set up an espionage operation in this instance involving a flight over Soviet territory.

One question raised was whether the flights made during the last four years "along the frontiers of the free world" were ever on the Soviet side of those frontiers.

There had been at least 13 incidents in the last 10 years involving American aircraft and Soviet armed forces. In those instances eight aircraft have been shot down, two have been forced to land in Communist territory and three escaped after being attacked, according to government compilations.

Saturday's statement washed out the earlier explanation except for the possibility—as Khrushchev argued in his speech—that it had been some kind of cover story to hide the real purpose of a secret mission. The point that State Department officials insisted on, however, was that when they issued the Thursday statement and NASA made its parallel explanation both agencies acted in good faith on the best available information.

The probably unprecedented admission was made in a statement prepared under the direction of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and cleared with President Eisenhower.

The action apparently hands Khrushchev a major propaganda triumph only a week before the opening of the May 16 summit conference in Paris.

But the State Department bitterly attacked Soviet "Iron Curtain" secrecy as the reason for espionage activities and thus provides a basis for Eisenhower to make a determined bid at the summit for an "open skies" policy among the great powers.

The statement also admitted the intelligence flights have been made by the same kind of jets "along the frontiers of the free world for the past four years."

Available officials said they did not know whether such flights had crossed over the frontier into Soviet air space.

The State Department announcement said the aircraft making this flight was an unarmed civilian U2 plane, a single engine jet which operates at high altitudes.

The key sentence in the U. S. statement bearing on Khrushchev's charge that the aircraft was on a spying mission and was shot down by the Soviet rocket last Sunday was this:

"It appears that in endeavoring to obtain information now concealed behind the Iron Curtain a flight over Soviet territory was probably undertaken by an unarmed civilian U2 plane."

The word "probably" was used, informants said, because the officials who drafted the statement did not want to be in a position of confirming every detail of Khrushchev's lengthy account of how the aircraft was shot down and its pilot, Francis G. Powers, captured after parachuting to earth.

Khrushchev said Powers had admitted he was on a spy mission. He suggested Saturday that Powers may be put on trial as a spy.

Officials declined to say whether an apology would be made to the Soviet government for the admitted violation of Soviet air space.

As to who ordered the flight the official statement offered no explanation.

"As a result of the inquiry ordered by the President, the statement said, "it has been established that insofar as the authorities in Washington are concerned there was no authorization for any such flight as described by Mr. Khrushchev."

Arrest 3 In Theft Of $10,000 From Bank Shipment

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Police announced the arrest Saturday of three men in connection with the disappearance of $10,000 in mutilated and soiled currency from a bank shipment. Two of the men are employes of a wastepaper firm.

Officers said $7,360 of the money had been found stashed away in a chandelier of a southside Chicago home, occupied by a relative of one of the men.

Held on theft charges were Willie E. Starks and William E. LeFlore Jr., both 20, employes of a Milwaukee wastepaper firm, and Walter L. (Bo Jangles) Cloyd, 23, also of Milwaukee. They are to be arraigned in the district court Monday.

Police said Starks and LeFlore admitted they found the money in wastepaper from the bank and took it to Chicago. They said they spent $400 of it on clothing, steaks, whisky and some loans to friends. They led police to the Chicago home where they said they had hidden most of their find.

Cloyd was accused by the other two men of taking $2,000 of the money as they were counting it. Police said Cloyd claimed he took $590 and returned $100 to Starks.

Morgan Spelling Champs

Berneta Surratt, 14-year-old 8th grader at Chapin elementary school, and Lawrence Quinlan, 13-year-old 8th grader at Our Saviour's elementary school, are the new spelling champs for Morgan county.

All schools in Morgan county were represented in the contest held Friday evening at Jonathan Turner junior high school gymnasium. The contest is sponsored annually by Mrs. Jane Murgatroyd, district manager of Field Enterprises, World Book division, in cooperation with county superintendents of schools in six surrounding counties.

Both students will compete with the top spellers from six counties Friday, May 13, at Jonathan Turner school, for district honors and a set of World Books. First place winners from each of the six counties will make a trip to Washington, D. C., in early June.

'I Didn't Hit Him Until We Started The Turn For Home:' Hartack

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "I didn't hit him until we started the turn for home," said jockey Bill Hartack.

"All I wanted to do was get past Bally Ache and stay there."

Stay there Hartack did, and brought Isaac Blumberg's Venetian Way in 3½ lengths ahead of Bally Ache in the biggest race of them all, the Kentucky Derby.

Bob Ussery, aboard Bally Ache, said Venetian Way "just ran by me."

It was Ussery's first derby and he was well pleased with second place.

"My horse ran a good race," he said. "I hit him five or six licks when Hartack began to move, but the horse didn't respond.

"He was running better than he ever had before, so I didn't bother to hit him again. No sense taking the heart out of a good horse.

"We'll catch 'em all in the Preakness."

Willie Shoemaker, winner last year with Tomy Lee, was aboard the favored Tompion this time. He was satisfied with the way his horse ran.

"Not pleased," he said of the fourth-place finish. "I didn't win. But I couldn't have asked Tompion to do more.

"I knew it wasn't his race after the first quarter mile. We went into the first turn slipping and sliding. At the half-mile pole I was sure we were dead."

Ahead of Tompion was Victoria Park, and Panamanian jockey Manuel Ycaza said things might have been different on a faster track.

"He moved up on the backside real nice," Ycaza said. "He ran a good race and his disposition was good—but he didn't like the track."

To a man, the jockeys agreed Venetian Way was destined for a wreath of roses when the big chestnut colt burst ahead at the start of the home stretch.

Ussery, whose mount was supposed to have a slight advantage on the heavy track, said:

"Hell, it wouldn't have mattered if there was a foot of snow on the ground. Nobody was going to catch Venetian Way today."

Brezhnev Takes Over As Soviets New President

MOSCOW (AP) Leonid Illich Brezhnev, regarded as one of the brightest rising stars of the Communist party, took over the presidency of the Soviet Union Saturday.

Aging and full of honors, President Klementi Y. Voroshilov, 79, asked in Parliament that he be relieved of his duties for health reasons. He had been president since Stalin's death in 1953.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev himself nominated Brezhnev, 53, a dynamic member of the party hierarchy who got his start in Khrushchev's party machine in the Ukraine.

It was the most dramatic of the many changes to the Communist party and Soviet government leadership last week.

The shift appeared to mark a change in the nature of the presidency — or chairmanship of the Presidium as the post is formally known—which up to now has been largely honorary.

Speculation among diplomats here is that the power and authority of the job are being increased to make it worthy of Khrushchev if it were decided to make him chief of state instead of just chief of government as he is now.

In any event, it seems obvious Brezhnev would not be content with a purely ceremonial job but would continue in the go-getting way he has maintained throughout a spectacular career.

Like many of the relatively young men coming along these days, Brezhnev made his name in Khrushchev's favorite field.

For example he rose rapidly through the party ranks in the Ukraine, Khrushchev's old bailiwick. He was deputy chief of political indoctrination in the armed forces and then became first secretary of the party in Kazakhstan, where he was a chief driving force in Khrushchev's scheme to develop the virgin lands.

All this is in contrast to Voroshilov, an old Bolshevik and intimate of Stalin, whose glories are mostly in the past.

Brezhnev, a swarthy, dark-haired man with heavy black eyebrows, is a noted trouble shooter as well as executive.

Name Mau Head Meat Inspection Division In State

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A veteran U.S. Department of Agriculture official has been amed to head the state's new meat inspection division, created to police health standards in packing plants serving Illinoisans only.

He is Dr. Fred Mau of Chicago, whose appointment was announced Saturday by Gov. Stratton.

The division—an arm of the State Agriculture Department—was created by the 1959 legislature because decentralization of the packing industry has created many small plants which do business only within Illinois.

Approximately 655 red meat and poultry slaughtering plants which deal totally within Illinois, and therefore are not subject to federal inspection, will come under the new state inspection rules July 1.

State Agriculture Director Sullman Stanard termed establishment of the division "one of the most important steps forward in recent years in the drive to maintain a safe and good food supply for the citizens of Illinois."

DROP PROJECT TO MAKE ALCOHOL FROM CORN

WASHINGTON (AP) — An experimental project to test the commercial possibilities of converting surplus corn into alchohol —announced several months ago by the Agriculture Department—is dead.

Officials have disclosed that opposition to the project has been so strong that they decided to abandon it. It had been planned that the department would enter contracts with processors to convert upwards of 30 million bushels of corn into industrial alchohol for commercial sale.

The object was to determine at what prices corn would have to be sold below current market prices to compete with alchohol made from petroleum and other materials. Most of the opposition came from the alchohol industry. Little support was offered by farm groups.

ESTIMATED RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP)—Estimated livestock receipts for Monday are 9,000 hogs, 21,000 cattle and 2,000 sheep.

out but that Powers avoided the ejector and jumped in taking to his parachute.

Powers also was equipped with a poison needle, Khrushchev said, and had been "told that he should not fall alive into the hands of Soviet authorities."

"Here is this instrument—the latest refinement in the U.S. machinery for the murder of people," the Premier said.

The plane was not fitted for weather study at all, he declared. "It was just an ordinary military reconnaissance aircraft equipped with various instruments for gathering espionage information." Its camera, he said, was good.

Of the poison needle, the Premier said Powers did not use it because "living things want to go on living."

The pilot also carried a silenced pistol, a dagger and a penknife.

"So you can see he was well provided with weapons," Khrushchev said.

"Why? Apparently because anything can happen up there."

Among other articles he said Powers was carrying were 7,500 Soviet rubles, some French gold francs and other foreign money, two gold watches in addition to Powers' own, "and seven gold bracelets for women."

"Was he going to fly to Mars and seduce Martian women?" Khrushchev asked scornfully.

The Premier added: "We have not only the instruments found on the aircraft but also a developed film consisting of photographs of several places on our territory."

"Here, look at this. Here are the airfields, here. Fighters in position on the ground. Two little white strips. Here you see another airfield. Here also in single line you see a long belt. They are our fighters in position on the ground. Again an airfield photographed. And again an airfield photographed. This is their film, and we have developed it. Again an airfield photographed. Well, this will suffice . . . ."

"The persons involved in this predatory flight have invented nothing but a stupid version to the effect that it was allegedly a meteorological aircraft," he said. "And then the oxygen equipment failed and the aircraft, like an unsteered derelict, dragged the pilot against his will into Soviet territory. What innocence"

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS

Journal Courier Sports Editor

Routt's athletes won't have to suffer with football injuries again as they did last fall if enough persons plan to attend the minstrel show in Formaz Hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, May 10, 11 and 12. All proceeds from this worthy affair will go to the athletic department for much needed equipment such as braces and quite possibly a whirlpool. Last fall after breezing along to six straight victories, the injury plague hit the team and without the proper equipment many of the regulars had to miss the remaining games. Interested persons at Routt don't want this to happen again and they're doing something about it by presenting a show (minstrel) called "A Revue In Color." Adults pay $1.00, students 50 cents and curtain time each performance is 8 p.m. If some of you don't know what a whirlpool is, then buy a ticket, go to the show, and some Rocket athlete will be glad to explain its function.

Almough it may be a little late getting into the ink, this small item concerning Ralph Eoff and his bowling feat accomplished last Sunday deserves worthy mention. But what can a writer say about a fellow who bowls a 700-plus series? Not much EXCEPT GREAT! Ralph set the all-time alley high series last weekend while bowling in the Taylorville Bowling Classic with a 723 series. This total also threw him into first place in addition to giving him top spot in the all-events scratch with a total of 1825 for which he'll receive a large trophy. Eoff put his 723 series together with games of 266-225 and 232. The total for the 1825 figure came as the result of 723-602-500 games. For his SIXTH 700-series efforts, Eoff will receive another 700 patch from the ABC. To Ralph, who has done a lot for the bowling game, we offer our congratulations on his sixth 700 game. And we hear tell this isn't done very often.

Routt's district baseball tournament will open Monday at Nichols Park starting at four o'clock with the host Rockets battling Jacksonville High. And both coaches, Bob Winstead and Bob Kraushaar, are pessimistic about the outcome. Winstead's Rockets have dropped 3-2 and 5-4 verdicts to the Jacks for the past two years in district openers and Kraushaar feels his squad may not have as much depth as in the past. Some fans rate it a tossup while others feel Routt should advance to the finals against Triopia Wednesday at four o'clock.

It should be another close contest in comparing scores the two teams have faced this season. JHS rallied to trip Virginia, 5-4, while the Redbirds nudged Routt 4-3. Against Jerseyville, both teams have split. Routt lost 9-4 but won the second contest, 6-1. Jacksonville lost to the Panthers in a five inning affair 11 days ago, 14-4, but got by them last Wednesday, 9-8, after blowing an 8-3 margin.

Routt carries a six win, four loss record while the Jacks are all even at six wins in 12 outings. Fred Curtis and Jack Lawless are the pitching aces for the Rocket nine while Jacksonville has relied on lefty Larry Smith this season. Smith has been in nine of the Crimsons' 12 decisions, winning five and losing four. Both teams have four or five good stickers in their lineups. Jacksonville has four hitters over the .300 mark in Ron Tomhave, Larry Darwent, Gary Spangenberg and Larry Smith, who leads the team in batting with a .375 mark. Routt hitting mainstays have been Fred Curtis, Jack Lawless, Ed Langdon, Bill Tobin and Joe Cors.

MacKay Advances Into Semifinals

ROME (AP)—Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, blasted Italy's top-ranked player, Nicola Pietrangeli, Saturday 6-4, 0-6, 6-0, 6-1 and moved into the semifinal round of the Rome International Tennis Tourney.

The 24-year-old U.S. Davis Cup player dominated the hour-long match all the way except for the second set. Pietrangeli, rated one of Europe's best, was alternately good and bad, bringing cheers and groans from the highly partisan crowd of several hundred watching the match on the central court.

In the semifinals, MacKay will meet the winner of Sunday's match between Neale Fraser of Australia and Guiseppe Merlo of Italy.

Cold Weather Postpones Cubs And Braves Tilt

CHICAGO (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves-Chicago Cub game postponed Saturday because of cold weather will be played as part of a Wrigley Field doubleheader Wednesday, June 29.

It was the second consecutive postponement in a scheduled three-game series.

And the idleness brought no complaint by new Cub manager Lou Boudreau, who had observed that his pitching staff was arm weary after a 9-7 defeat by the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday.

That was the first game for the Cubs under Boudreau, who succeeded Charley Grimm at the Bruin helm. "Our starting pitchers and relief pitchers are fatigued," said Boudreau." A rest wouldn't hurt them a bit."

Kilpatrick, 70, Former Garden President, Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick, 70, president of Madison Square Garden for more than 20 years, died Saturday of cancer in Roosevelt Hospital.

At death he was president of the New York Rangers hockey team. In 1956 he was chairman of Citizens for Eisenhower.

Kilpatrick, a star end at Yale in 1909 and 1910, was elected to the National Football Foundation's hall of fame in 1955.

A member of the Army Reserve for 37 years until his retirement in 1949, his military career was climaxed by his promotion to brigadier general in 1942.

After graduation from Yale, Kilpatrick entered the construction business here. In 1923, he became vice president of the George A. Fuller Co.

He supervised construction of the New York County Court House, the New York Times Building and two buildings on the Yale campus.

He left the Fuller firm in 1933 to assume the presidency of Madison Square Garden. He became board chairman in 1955.

JIM BROWN LEADS BLUES TO 13-6 WIN SATURDAY

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Fullback Jim Brown gained 93 yards with a 4.9 rushing average Saturday to lead the Blues to a 13-6 victory in Illinois' annual spring football game.

Brown scored on a one-yard smash to end a 49-yard march and Gerry Wood kicked the point. Johnny Easterbrook made it 7-6 scoring the Whites' only touchdown from the 2.

In the last quarter, the Blues drove 57 yards behind the quarterbacking of Mel Meyers. He scored from the 3 on a sweep.

Ten fumbles hobbled both teams' offense.

He finished second in the feature race here last year, also second in the United Speedways Point Standing and fifth in the IMCA Point Standing. Jerry won two feature races last year in the Offy at Rochester, Minn., and at Oskaloosa, Iowa. So far this year he has raced at the Florida State Fair at Tampa where he finished in the top four cars each day of a four day series, also at Houston, Texas, Reading, Pa., and Langehorne, Pa., where he finished well up in the feature race.

Yankees Retain Grip On 1st With 4-1 Win

NEW YORK (AP) — New York retained its grip on first place Saturday as Ralph Terry hurled a five-hitter to give the Yankees their fourth straight triumph, 4-1, over Kansas City.

Bill Skowron and Roger Maris drove in three of the Yankee runs. Skowron walked with the bases loaded in the first inning and drove in another in the third with a single. Maris, who finally was stopped after reaching base nine straight times, six via hits, drove in the Yankees' final run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth. Elston Howard batted in the other New York run, also with a sacrifice fly.

The Yankees collected only six hits off three Kansas City pitchers. Two of them, together with a hit batter, a walk and a sacrifice fly, gave them a 2-0 lead in the first inning. George Brunet was the victim.

Chisox Sweep Series With Washington, 6-4

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim Kaat's first-inning wildness and Billy Consolo's fifth-inning error boosted Chicago to a 6-4 victory over Washington Saturday and gave the White Sox a sweep of the three-game series.

Dick Donovan, with help from Frank Baumann and Turk Lown, nailed down his first victory of the season although the Senators out-hit the Sox, 9 to 7, and had the benefit of a three-run homer by Jim Lemon.

Rookie Kaat put himself in the hole in the first inning by walking Luis Aparicio and Minnie Minoso and hitting Roy Sievers with a pitch to load the bases. Sherm Lollar's scratch single off Kaat's glove brought in one run. Al Smith's clean single to left scored two more. In the third, ex-Senator Sievers blasted his second homer of the season to make it 4-0.

Cleveland Beats Baltimore, 3-1, Behind Gary Bell

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rookie pitcher Chuck Estrada of the Baltimore Orioles suffered one spell of wildness Saturday and it lost him a pitching duel with Gary Bell and a 3-1 decision to the Cleveland Indians.

The Indians scored two runs in the fifth inning with the benefit of only one single by Walt Bond. Estrada's control left him completely and he hit George Strickland and Woody Held, first two batters.

A sacrifice bunt by Bell advanced them and Estrada then walked Johnny Temple to load the bases. Harvey Kuenn's sacrifice fly scored Strickland and Bon's single to right sent home Held.

It was Estrada's first defeat in the American League after two victories although he gave up only four hits, all singles.

Detroit Loses 10th Straight, 5-0

BOSTON (AP) — Boston righthander Bill Monbouquette held Detroit hitless after giving up a double to the second batter of the game for a superb 5-0 victory.

Neil Chrisley, formerly a Red Sox player, got the lone safety off Monbouquette when his drive off the left field wall went for two bases. Fielder Gene Stephens had no chance for the ball.

In pitching the finest game of his brief major league career, Monbouquette struck out five and walked only two. A Fenway crowd of 11,619 sat entranced by the masterful control and amazing breaking pitches by which he baffled the Tigers who now have lost 10 straight.

Monbouquette, who grew up only a few miles from the park in suburban Medford and who worked his first complete major league season in 1959, faced only 30 batters.

Winner Wrestles Lead From Bally Ache Off Final Turn: Tompion 4th

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Venetian Way wrested the lead from the front-running Bally Ache coming off the final turn at chilly Churchill Downs Saturday and went on to victory in the $158,950 Kentucky Derby as the favored Tompion struggled home fourth.

It was a case of perseverance for Venetian Way, his happy owner, his jubilant trainer and jockey Bill Hartack.

Last September at Chicago, Venetian Way beat Bally Ache a half-length in the $100,000 Washington Park Futurity. But this season in three meetings Bally Ache had finished in front of Venetian Way from the Sunny Blue Farm of Isaac Blumberg, Chicago machinery manufacturer.

One was the $100,000 Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park in early April but Bally Ache prevailed by a nose.

This time, Venetian Way, Chestnut son of Royal Coinage-Firefly by Papa Redbird, was well placed throughout.

Then when Hartack gave the word Venetian Way pulled away to score by 3½ lengths.

It was not the type of track after being rain-soaked Friday night that Trainer Vic Sovinski wanted for his free-striding star. But it was the race he wanted. Two years ago Sovinski saddled Blumberg's Lincoln Road in a surprise second to Tim Tam.

Bally Ache, owned by Leonard Fruchtman of Toledo, Ohio, was 7½ lengths ahead of Canada's big horse, Victoria Park, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto.

Victoria Park came from far off the pace to beat the fading Tompion by 2¼ lengths. Tompion, carrying the silks of C. V. Whitney, went off as the even-money choice of the estimated crowd of 75,000.

In the years past the turnout has reached around 100,000 but Saturday it was mighty miserable for humans and horses at the Downs.

The thermometer registered 52 degrees. It was the fourth coldest day in the 86 years of running of the classic race for 3-year-olds.

Tompion, with Willie Shoemaker trying for his third derby, barely lasted to get fourth money.

He managed to make it by a nose over Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Bourbon Prince.

Thirteen 3-year-olds started in the nation's greatest horse racing spectacle. And it was again an unlucky number for Whitney, international sportsman who has now tried 11 times since 1935 to get into the winner's horseshoe of red roses.

The victory was Hartack's second derby triumph. He took the 1957 race with the Calumet Farm's second stringer, Iron Liege, after the stables' top star, Gen. Duke, was scratched due to an injury.

Going off at 6-1, Venetian Way paid his backers $14.60, $4.60 and $3.40.

Bally Ache, with Bobby Ussery making his initial riding appearance in the race, was sent off the 8-5 second choice.

Bally Ache, who finished second in five $100,000-plus races last year by a total of less than 1½ lengths, returned $3 and $3.

Victoria Park, a 16-1 shot ridden by Manual Ycaza, paid $5 to show.

Venetian Way turned in a surprisingly good time of 2:02 2-5 for the 1¼ miles. Bally Ache had stepped off first quarter mile in :23 2-5, the half in :46 4-5, the six furlongs in 1:11 and still had a one-length lead as he hit the mile post in 1:36 3-5.

The time compared to the derby record of 2:01 2-5 set by Whirlaway on a fast track in 1941 and the 2:02 1-5 clocking by Tomy Lee in taking the 1959 renewal, also on a speedy racing strip.

For Blumberg the victory was worth $114,850 and boosted Venetian Way's earnings for the year to $138,225. It sent his total bankroll for 15 races to $280,127.

The gate slammed open at the head of the stretch at 4:31 p.m. (EST) and then as expected, Bally Ache swung quickly into the lead.

Passing the finish line the first time with a mile to travel and the crowd in an uproar, Bally Ache led by a head over Henrijan, the California colt who was a doubtful starter until shortly before post time when a track veterinarian pronounced him fit.

Henrijan had been feverish with a slight cold for several days.

Shoemaker, starting from the extreme outside, must have had instructions to take off after Bally Ache.

He swiftly swung into third position, a half-length behind Henrijan.

Bally Ache whirled into the clubhouse turn followed by Henrijan, Tompion and Venetian Way. When they left the back stretch with about a half a mile to travel, Bally Ache still led by a length or so.

But Hartack had Venetian Way charging up on the outside and into second place.

It was apparent midway around the final bend that the pace on the off-track was taking its toll of Bally Ache and that Tompion was not going to get a chance to smell the roses.

Just before they straightened for home, a quarter of a mile from pay dirt and right where the race was started, Venetian Way showed who was boss.

The colt, named for a Miami thoroughfare as was Lincoln Road, purred into the stretch like a finely tuned sports car and a few seconds later the derby was history.

After Bourbon Prince the finish in order was S. I. Crew's Cuvier Relic, Anthony Graffagnini's Tony Graif, M. H. van Berg's Spring Broker, Divine Comedy from the Llangollen Farm, Mrs. Carl S. Hodge's Fighting Hodge, the Valley Farms' Yomolka, T. Allie Grissom's Lurullah, and a very tired Henrijan bringing up the rear.

Jerry Enters Final Round Holding Two Stroke Lead At Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—California's Jerry Barber knocked out a six-under-par 66 Saturday for a third-round total of 201 to hold the lead in the $42,000 Tournament of Champions.

Barber, of Los Angeles, at 44 the oldest and weighing 135 the smallest golfer in the field, goes into the final round Sunday with a lead of two strokes over his nearest challenger, big Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C.

The 40-year-old Boros also had a 66 for a 54-hole score of 203.

The scene is the Desert Inn Country Club, a 7,000-yard course with par 36-36—72. The weather again was hot and clear with a fair breeze prevailing.

Barber, who spends most of his time as a club professional, went into this round with a one-stroke lead over the field, Ken Venturi and Jay Hebert his nearest challenger.

Boros and Arnold Palmer were two strokes back of Jerry.

Barber shot the course in 33-33 for his second 66 in a row, and when the firing was over for the day Hebert was in third place with his third straight 68 for 204. And Palmer, with a 70, was back at 207.

U.S. Open Champion Billy Casper moved into contention with a 66 for 206 and a tie with Venturi, who had a 70.

At least two other earlier threats fell back. Art Wall Jr. and Mike Souchak each took 73 blows to get around and tie at 212 with Doug Ford, who had a 69.

Crimsons Third Among 29 Schools Entered In Delavan Carnival

DELAVAN—Peoria Central reigned as the new champ here Saturday in the annual Delavan Track Carnival replacing Jacksonville, who won the crown last year. Central amassed 30½ tallies to beat 28 other participating schools. Quincy was second with 25½ while Coach Al Rosenberger's Crimsons landed third place with 22 markers.

The track was soft and the day cold and windy with the temperature registering 37 degrees. The affair attracted some fine teams and the competition was stiff.

Crimsons placing were John Bourn, 1st in the pole vault; Larry Hagen, 5th in the 880 yard run; Ron Yates, 2nd in the low hurdles and 4th in the discus; Ken Norton, 2nd in discus; Mal Portee, 2nd in broad jump; and the 880 varsity relay team composed of Bill Stanford, Gary Spangenberg, Jim Hurst and Norton was fourth.

Freshman Ron Yates was a pleasant surprise for the Crimsons to lead their scoring with six points via his second and fourth.

Norton of JHS was favored in the 180 low hurdles after winning his preliminary heat in the best time but he was eliminated in the semi-finals. However, his 4½ points established a new JHS scoring record in track for one season. Norton now has 156¾ points to his credit which breaks Milt McPike's old scoring feat of 151 for a single campaign.

Mal Portee suffered his first loss in the broad jump this year and the condition of the field hampered Portee as the winning leap was less than 20 feet.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Sword Dancer bouncing back with all his old steps and a few new ones in the $70,000 Gray Lag Stakes at a mile-and-an eighth at Aqueduct gave the handicap division a tremendous lift.

"Sword Dancer is another name horse where one was sorely needed," says Jimmy Kilroe, racing director, secretary and official handicapper of New York tracks, "Think what this means to the Metropolitan Handicap at the Big A on Decoration Day, when Brookmeade's little red horse again will tackle Bald Eagle, which beat him in the Widener and Gulfstream Handicaps."

Sword Dancer, 4, was as extraordinary carrying top weight in the Grey Lag as he was last fall at Aqueduct in beating the older Hillsdale and Round Table in the mile-and-a-quarter Woodward and Round Table and Tudor Era in the two-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup. It was after these heats that Eddie Arcaro, the famous jockey, said, "No telling how good this fellow is."

illustration of the axiom, "Horses for courses."

"He either wasn't himself in Florida or the tracks didn't suit," says Kilroe. "The time in the Grey Lag, 1:49 3/5, was first class when you consider the fact that a wind was against him in the first part and he was forced to move around splendid horses entering the stretch."

SWORD DANCER'S BURST of speed around Aqueduct's final turn and through the stretch set veterans to talking.

"It's a pity that horses are now rated by the amount of money won," remarked a racing writer.

"Rated by whom?" asked Kilroe.

"The public," replied the racing writer.

"Well, that's something else," said Kilroe, "racing people still rate horses on performances. If money won was the measure of success, you'd never hear of Man o' War and Native Dancer retired out of the first seven. Tom Fool, winner of 10 straight at 4 and carrying up to 136 pounds, isn't in the first 20."

Round Table is the world's leading money-winner with $1,749,869.

"I called seven races in which Round Table ran," cut in Don Fair, who has been calling them for the offi-ial chart longer than he cares to remember. "Round Table won only one of them. Sword Dancer beat him twice last fall. Bold Ruler could beat him any time they hooked up. Gallant Man could beat him doing anything. Round Table was durable, of course, and turned in creditable times, but he was also well managed by Willie Molter, who picked spots for him."

IT WAS JUST AS WELL that someone named this race for Grey Lag. Otherwise the horse which was the big three-year-old in 1921, after Mon o' War retired, would be forgotten.

Grey Lag is one of the few thoroughbreds which won half or more of his starts while continuing his career past his sophomore season. The gelded Exterminator was one, bagging exactly 50 of 100. Grey Lag, son of Star Shoot, copped 25 of 47, was out of the dough in only seven outings while competing against the most formidable in training.

Grey Lag won the 1921 Brooklyn Handicap and Dwyer at old Aqueduct. He beat Exterminator in the Brooklyn, yet even with his excellent record Grey Lag earned only $136,715. Sword Dancer banked almost one-third of that getting up in the Grey Lag alone.

Giants Tie Pirates For 1st Place, 6-5

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A wild six-run seventh inning featured by Eddie Bressoud's inside-the-park three-run homer gave the San Francisco Giants a 6-5 victory over Pittsburgh Saturday. The triumph tied up the National League race.

A crowd of 33,065 watched a full afternoon of fireworks, including Pirate protests and a top relief pitching job by Bud Byerly, third Giant pitcher. He gave up one hit in three innings.

Manager Danny Murtaugh was ejected after the wild seventh and Dick Stuart was thumbed for remarks to Plate Umpire Tony Venzon in the ninth.

They went into the seventh trailing 0-5 as Harvey Haddix worked on a one-hitter.

Don Blasingame and Jim Davenport singled. Orlando Cepeda doubled two runs across.

TRIANGULAR TO GOPHERS

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Minnesota swept 8 out of 13 first Saturday to win a triangular track meet with 82 points. Marquette had 56 and Northwestern 21.

Stan Morrow of the Gophers was high scorer with 10 points with victories in the broad jump and pole vault.

Minnesota captured the first three places in the shot put. Bill Swanson won it with a toss of 51 feet-9½ inches. Dennis Albrecht was second and Tom Brown third.

HAZE HAMPERS SEARCH

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — An aerial search, hampered by heavy haze, failed Saturday to find any trace of three members of a Swiss expedition missing since Friday on a flight to a base camp on the slopes of Dhaulagiri, the world's highest unclimbed fountain.

St. John, Virgin Islands, is the main source of bay leaves used in manufacturing bay rum.

Eller Captures Women's Amateur

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Pretty Judy Eller of Old Hickory, Tenn., overwhelmed battle-weary Jackie Higgins of New Orleans Saturday for a second straight women's Southern Amateur Golf Title.

Miss Eller, 19-year-old member of the U.S. Curtis Cup team, was a decisive 6 and 4 victor over the 32-year-old housewife.

The end came on the 32nd hole of the 36-hole championship round, played over the muddy Metairie Country Club course. Miss Eller parked her third shot three feet from the pin on the 452-yard hole and Mrs. Higgins conceded the birdie putt.

Miss Eller, personable daughter of a golfing professional, said she thought she played "hot and cold and I'm happy to win."

HARVARD AGAIN FAVORED

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Harvard University's heavyweight and lightweight eight-oared crews again will be favored to capture the Eastern Assn. Rowing Colleges Sprint Championships on Lake Quinsigamond Saturday.

The Crimson won the heavyweight crown last year on Lake Carnegie at Princeton, N.J., while the lightweight shell raced to victory on the Charles River in Cambridge.

STACY COMES TO TERMS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stand out defensive halfback Billy Stacy, a National football league freshman in 1959, Saturday signed his 1960 contract with the St. Louis football Cardinals.

Managing Director Walter Wolfner announced signing the former Mississippi State quarterback.

CONSERVATION MEASURES

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian wildlife officials are becoming increasingly concerned over whether the polar bear population is being reduced excessively by overhunting.

Aside from preventing this magnificent animal from becoming extinct, the government's wildlife service wants to conserve it because of the role it plays in the Eskimo diet.

PURDIN STARS IN 32-6 TRIUMPH

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Senior halfback Ray Purdin scored four touchdowns, one on an 81-yard punt return, to lead Northwestern's White team to a 32-6 victory over the Purples in their annual spring football game Saturday.

Purdin also caught three touchdown passes from quarterback Dick Thornton. They were good for 39, 37 and 28 yards. The other touchdown for the Whites came on a 6-yard pass from Larry Wood to sophomore end Ed Caplinger of East Gary, Ind.

The only score for the Purples came on a quarterback sneak by junior Bob Eickhoff. The Whites consisted of Northwestern's first stringers.

BADGERS WITHOUT QB

MADISON (AP) — An intrasquad scrimmage in a driving rain and low temperatures Saturday left the Wisconsin football team without the services of quarterback candidate Ron Carolson, a freshman from Rockford, Ill.

The drill was the last heavy workout for the rebuilding Badgers prior to next Saturday's Alumni game, the final clash of the spring training session.

The exact nature of Carolson's injury was not known, but he may not be able to play in the Alumni game.

That would leave the signal calling in the hands of three other inexperienced quarterbacks.

Redbirds Remain Winless On The Road In 6-2 Loss

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jay Hook, the right-handed half of a youthful but promising Cincinnati pitching duo, hurled the Reds to their sixth straight victory Saturday, 6-2 over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jim O'Toole, the southpaw half of the Reds' youngster combination, blanked the Cards on four hits Friday night.

The Reds, last in the National League only a week ago, moved into at least a tie for fourth place with their victory. It was the Cards' seventh straight defeat on the road.

Eddie Kasko, with a double and a triple, drove in three of the Reds' runs.

The Reds wasted no time in getting to loser Ronnie Kline who now has a lifetime record of only 4-12 against them. Consecutive doubles by Vada Pinson and Gus Bell gave them a run in the first. They got two more in the third on a single by Billy Martin, a triple by Eddie Kasko and Pinson's second double.

Friday Night Baseball

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sad Sam Jones is back in stride, the Willies are at it again and the San Francisco Giants are within one game of the National League lead.

It was as simple as that for the Giants Friday night, whipping Pittsburgh's first-place Pirates 5-1 in the opener of a three-game series at Candlestick Park. They scored all their runs on homers by Willie McCovey, Willie Kirkland and Willie Mays while Jones spun a three-hitter.

Jones, a 21-game winner in the Giants' near-miss of last season, now has a pair of three-hitters and a one-hitter for a 3-2 record after taking a couple of beatings by St. Louis and Los Angeles. This one handed the Pirates' Vern Law his first defeat in five decisions.

Third-place Milwaukee, 2½ games behind, was rained out at Chicago, but the Cincinnati Reds won their fifth straight, beating fourth-place St. Louis 1-0 on a four-hitter by Jim O'Toole, who also drove in the run. That gave the Reds a fifth-place tie with Los Angeles, beaten 6-1 in 10 innings by Philadelphia.

The Giants went right to work on the Pirates, scoring two in the first inning on McCovey's eighth home run, tops in the majors, after a single by Jimmy Davenport. Kirkland's No. 4 home run came in the fourth with Orlando Cepeda on base. Mays, hitless in only one of the Giants' 19 games, then hit his second home run by way of marking his 29th birthday.

The Phillies, with Don Cardwell and winning reliever Dick Farrell (2-0) holding the Dodgers to two hits, won their first at Los Angeles in 13 tries since 1958. Bobby Gene Smith's double broke a 1-1 tie in the five-run 10th and Al Dark added a two-run homer against loser Sandy Koufax (0-2), who struck out 15.

American League

They've been few and far between, but southpaw Herb Score has another step behind him on the long road back from the injury that almost ended one of major league baseball's most promising careers three years ago today.

Nagged by arm trouble and wildness since recovering from the line drive that endangered his sight May 7, 1957, Score recaptured some of his old success Friday night, pairing with reliever Gerry Staley for a three-hit shutout as Chicago's White Sox beat Washington 3-0.

Score, one - time fast - balling strikeout ace, had lost seven straight since last July 3. In 51 1-3 innings since then he had given up 50 bases on balls. But Friday night he walked just two and fanned four before being lifted for a pinchhitter in a three-run seventh that kept the Sox in a virtual tie for the American League lead.

The New York Yankees, .018 percentage points ahead of the Sox, defeated Kansas City 8-7. Baltimore grabbed third place back from Cleveland, rapping the Indians 9-2. And Boston scored three in the ninth for a 3-2 decision over Detroit, the Tigers ninth straight defeat.

Score, 26, a 20-game winner as a sophomore in 1956, had only an 11-14 record with Cleveland after his injury and the Indians traded him to the Sox three weeks ago.

Score squared his record at 1-1 in his third start for the White Sox, who were shut out on one-hit for six innings before handing Pete Ramos his third loss of the year. They did it with two out in the seventh, when pinchhitters Ted Kluszewski and Earl Torgeson, batting for Score, lined singles after Al Smith's double and a walk. Staley, who hasn't been charged with a run this season, then extended his shutout streak to 15 2-3 innings with a hitless, three-inning mopup.

The Yankees won their third straight on Gil McDougald's eighth-inning single.

Baltimore cut loose for seven runs in the fourth inning against rookie Dick Stigman (1-1) and reliever Jim Perry. Skinny Brown (2-0) won his second complete game.

Boston capped its ninth-inning rally with two unearned runs after a two-out error by shortstop Chico Fernandez.

Blueboys Annex 1st Home Victory Saturday In Opening Tilt, 6-5

The Illinois College Blueboys and the Rose Poly Engineers split a double header yesterday at the Hilltop diamond. The Blueboys managed to annext the first game 6-5, and the visitors from Terre Haute, Ind., scored a 4-2 triumph in the second game.

Ken Stone was the winning pitcher in the opening game as he struck out 10 men and walked 3 in the seven inning assignment. For the losers Jim Godwin gave up 2 free passes and retired 3 men on strikeouts during the game.

In the opening inning both teams started off with a bang as they both accumulated 3 runs, but then in the second the action cooled down and the game remained a close contest for the rest of the way. Although Rose Poly took a one run edge in the second inning, the Hilltoppers did not give up and in the third inning the score was again knotted when Stone crossed the plate as the result of a triple by Ed Puck.

In the fifth the Blueboys managed to take a one run lead but this was quickly erased as the Engineers came back in the sixth with another run. The bottom of the sixth saw the Brooksmen put across their winning run as again Stone hit a sacrifice fly to bring in Bob Volk.

The pitchers for the final game were Ken Mock for IC and Jerry Heiniger for the visitors. Mock gave up 5 free passes and was unable to retire anyone via strike outs. Heiniger struck out five and walked 4, and his replacement, Godwin, in the sixth, walked 2 and struck out none.

In the first inning the Blueboys seemed to get off to a good start but due to an unfortunate coincidence the Blueboys did not score. A long home run by Larry Scott to deep right field turned out to be nothing but an unassisted put out by the first baseman as Scott forgot to tag the first base on his way around.

The game was a scoreless battle until the fourth inning when the Engineers jumped off to a two to nothing lead. In the bottom of the fourth, however, the Blueboys came back and knotted the score, as Dale Bellovich and Puck scored on a booming triple by Uli Kuster. In the sixth the host squad scored what amounted to the two winning runs. Balt and Finoglio each singled with two outs to drive in two runs.

The results of the games placed the Blueboys in a 3-2 situation in the Prairie College Conference and left the Engineers with a 4-2 mark in conference play.

The next contest scheduled for the Hilltoppers is Wednesday against Greenville.

Rose Poly's record for the year is 5-5.

Stairway To Stars, Theme Of Winchester High Prom

By Dorothy Sauer
Winchester Correspondent
(Telephone Pioneer 2-3439)

"Stairway to the Stars" was the theme of the 1960 Junior-Senior Prom at the Winchester high school held on Friday evening, May 6, from 9 o'clock until 12 midnight as the students danced to the lilting strains of the Lyndell Symons orchestra.

Junior class sponsors in charge of the annual affair were Mrs. William Willsey, Mrs. Lillian Coultas and Robb Rueb.

The beautifully gowned girls and attractively attired boys descended the steps leading to the Prom through a cloud-like effect tunnel completely covered with pink paper flowers studded with gold stars. Haloing the tunnel was pink angel hair which gave one the illusion of stepping through the clouds.

The gym itself, where the Prom was held, was canopied with a ceiling of white streamers bright with silver and gold stars. The far end of the gym was covered with a blue drop studded with stars which represented the sky and to one side were suspended round steps covered with the pink angel hair giving the effect of truly "stepping to the stars."

White covered card tables, centered with a single pink carnation on each, filled each side of the room. The serving table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a huge centerpiece of pink carnations flanked on either side by pink candles in crystal holders.

Highlight of the evening was the coronation of the King and Queen at 10:15 o'clock. Each year a senior boy and girl are voted as King and Queen by members of the two classes. Peggy Coughlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurmon Coughlin, was selected as this year's Queen and Stanley Likes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Likes, was chosen as the new King.

Last year's Queen, Miss Virginia O'Donnell, was escorted to the throne to place the crown upon the head of the new Queen, by Bill Robinson, a junior class member, who was acting as stand-in for last year's King, Pat Jefferson. Serving as Crown Bearers for their Majesties were Harry Pate, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pate of near Murrayville, and Debbie Wright, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wright of near Manchester.

Candidates for the Queen election were Miss Coughlin, Karen Wilson, Ruth Ann Sipes and Sandy Cowhick. King candidates were Stanley Likes, Earl Benton, Russell Mosley and Mike Kehart.

The Grand March, led by the new King and Queen, followed the Coronation.

Women assisting in the serving of the cookies, nuts, mints and punch at the refreshment table included Mrs. R. R. Riggs, Mrs. Harry Taylor, Mrs. Addison Scott, Mrs. Leo Robinson, Mrs. Lewis Pate, Mrs. Hal McLaughlin, Mrs. Raymond Slagle, Mrs. Helen Coates and Mrs. Maynard Pennell of Manchester.

The refreshments were baked and prepared for serving by eight girls of the junior class including Elaine Wells, Donna Six, Dianne Fryman, Mary King, Jane Pate, Marilyn Smith, Grace Etta Smith and Stephanie Pennell assisted by Mrs. Elmo Waters, teacher of the Home Ec department at the school.

Members of the faculty were present for this annual event. All of the board members were invited to attend and those present included Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Corrie, County Superintendent of Schools; Mr. and Mrs. Court McLaughlin and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thady.

Most of the couples attending attended the movie at the Greene Drive-in especially shown after the Prom for them. Several of the couples were entertained at breakfast in various homes following the show.

Morbid Vandals Deface Tombs In Old Cemetery

JERSEYVILLE — Vandals in the vicinity of Delhi damaged tombstones in the Van Horne cemetery in the locality of the Ernest Ferenbach farm.

The vandalism was discovered by Ferenbach whose land adjoins the rural cemetery. He reported the situation to the office of Sheriff Howard Perdun Tuesday afternoon and an investigation was conducted.

Sheriff Perdun reported that a marble shaft bearing a marble globe at the top had been pushed over and chipped by the vandals. In chipping the monument, the vandals had used a small grave marker for a tool.

The monument was one erected at the graves of the late John Oscar and his wife, Antoinette Oscar, prominent residents of the community more than a half century ago.

The old cemetery was an important burial place during the great cholera epidemic which swept the United States in 1849. Scores of old markers placed at the graves of victims, today give historical evidence of what the situation must have been. The majority of those who died did so in a comparatively brief period of time during the 1849 epidemic. Yellow fever was also rampant that year but the fever was found mostly in coastal cities. Nothing was known at that time of the cause of either the cholera or yellow fever. Science in later decades was to reveal the cause and control of both.

Old records in Jersey county reveal that the cholera was most prevalent among residents of southern Jersey county, Madison county to the south and Alton.

Injured Woman Will Be Moved To Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE — Mrs. Elmer Grafford, who has been a patient at St. Mary's hospital in Cresco, Iowa, will be brought by Jacoby Brothers ambulance this weekend to the Jersey Community hospital for further hospitalization. Mrs. Grafford was seriously injured about 11 p.m. Friday, April 29, near Cresco, Iowa, as she and Miss Velma Groppel of Rosedale were enroute home following a trip to Minnesota.

According to information received here relative to the accident, it occurred when the 1956 Chevrolet in which the Jersey county women were traveling was struck on the back fender by a passing car containing six teenagers. The impact threw Mrs. Grafford's car out of control and the vehicle was demolished when it collided with a clay bank at the side of the roadway.

Mrs. Grafford and Miss Groppel were removed from the site of the accident to the hospital at Cresco. Miss Groppel who suffered a knee dislocation was dismissed from the hospital and returned home with relatives of Mrs. Grafford who were called to Iowa following the accident.

Mrs. Grafford remained a patient at the hospital for treatment of rib fractures, possible lung puncture, lacerations and bruises of both legs, a knee injury and facial lacerations.

Mrs. Grafford and Miss Groppel made the trip to Minnesota to accompany the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crull of Dawson Creek, British Columbia, Canada, who went to visit relatives in Minnesota after spending some time visiting relatives in Jersey county.

Mrs. Grafford was vacationing from her work as a practical nurse at the Montreat Nursing Home in Calhoun county.

Dr. A. B. Applebee, President of the Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association, has announced that Hugh Gibson, building contractor, is ready to start construction of a new Savings and Loan building on West State Street, one-half block West of the public square. Ground is scheduled to be broken Monday.

The modern, two story office building, constructed of glass, steel, aluminum and concrete, will be built on the site formerly occupied by Dr. A. M. Paisley, Morgan County Loan Company, King Insurance Agency, Jacques Optical Service and the Maple Chest Gift Shop.

The new office building will be two stories in height and will have a frontage of eighty feet on West State street by seventy feet in depth along Alley "B".

The Savings and Loan's new office will be ultra modern, with six teller windows and two new drive-up windows along the west side.

Increased services will include a wide variety of savings plans, expanded loan facilities, customer parking and complete automobile savings and loan service.

Other occupants of the new building will be Dr. A. M. Paisley, who will continue in his present location during the new construction, and on the second floor, which will be served by an automatic elevator, A. G. Edwards Investment Company, Jacques Optical Service and Memorial Lawn cemetery.

Now, with assets in excess of $14,000,000, and over 7,000 members, Jacksonville Savings has entirely outgrown its present quarters.

A New Idea—

An interesting idea has popped up in the appliance field. Some of the serious thinkers are considering leasing household machinery rather than selling it.

There are double advantages. The industry would have a guaranteed market to iron out fluctuations. The customer would be rid of the servicing woes which have become an increasing problem.

This is a subject which will be debated for a good while. There are some who say that a good many Americans today never own anything, that they are, in effect, paying a "use fee" when they buy a car on installments and then trade it in once the installments are paid up.

Perhaps we should be realistic and call it "rental." Intriguing thought.

Evaluation

Though the case of Caryl Chessman is formally closed with his execution in California, the controversy surrounding his 12-year fight for life is sure to rage on.

To the extent that the issue of capital punishment is involved, it treats of Chessman only as a symbol.

Chessman's writing talents and his long succession of appeals and other court maneuvers served to dramatize him. No similar stir was aroused over the others in many states who had been executed during the past 12 years.

In the end, however, it must be remembered that he was executed according to the laws of California. That state's legislature specifically refused to alter the law providing for capital punishment, though Gov. Edmund G. Brown urged this action.

To the last Chessman maintained his innocence. Here again, it needs to be recalled that his case was reviewed endlessly by many court authorities. At no stage was any court persuaded that new evidence existed which might cast doubt on the original decision.

Nor was any appeals court seriously affected by Chessman's argument that the decision should have been thrown out because it was founded on an imperfect transcript of his trial.

It should be thoroughly plain to all that Chessman received far more hearings of his case—with attendant postponements of his execution—than 99 of a 100 condemned men would get.

Possibly some will wonder not why he was executed after 12 years but why a condemned man was able to delay execution for so long.

Peculiarly illogical are those contentions, advanced mostly by outraged foreigners, that Chessman should have been spared because he "suffered enough" in his long fight.

The meaning of these arguments is that any condemned man may escape the supreme penalty if he can just contrive to delay it long enough.

The debate over capital punishment is legitimate and deserves fullest airing. But as it applies to Chessman alone it is artificial. If all the emotionalism and notoriety attending his case could have been stripped away, he would have been seen for what he was—just one of many.

He was dealt with as California law required. If there was any injustice in the handling of his case, Chessman in 12 years was unable to show it to the satisfaction of the courts.

Jesus of the Parables

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Jesus said that His kingdom was not of this world. His spiritual kingdom of God was different in its authority, its principles, its worths and values than an earthly kingdom.

Perhaps this difference was nowhere more marked than in the Beatitudes, the qualities of character and action that Jesus signalized for special blessedness (Matthew 5).

In the kingdoms of this world it is the strong, the aggressive, the self-seekers and the successful who achieve distinction and the rewards and blessings the world has to give.

In the kingdoms of this world not many hunger and thirst after righteousness.

The meek and the "poor in spirit" don't find much blessing or applause.

If peacemakers had been universally acclaimed the world wouldn't be in its present condition. There would be fewer feuds, racial and other strifes, in national and private areas.

Mercy, moreover does not figure largely in either personal or public matters.

It is when one looks at the world and realizes all this that the worths and values that Jesus emphasized in the Beatitudes become imperatively challenging.

Jesus defined grace and goodness without reference to the way men commonly thought or acted.

He did not invent a religion or originate ideas or set arbitrary standards of worths and values.

What He taught was in harmony with what might be called the spiritual constitution of man and the universe.

That a spiritual constitution exists, I think, is the fact that deep in their hearts men approve largely the actions and the qualities that Jesus blessed.

Jesus emphasized the greatness of service, and so emphasized the lesson that as an act of service He washed the disciples' feet.

Ostensibly we do not rate service highly, but in some respects it counts for more than anything else.

When we think of a great physician or surgeon, it is not of the big income that he makes or of his outward distinction in the community. We count him great rather because of the service he renders in research and action for man.

If most of us were asked to name the greatest men and women of our time we might choose eminent scientists, chiefly because of their services. It is more likely we would think of Albert Schweitzer in Africa or of Grenfell in Labrador, of the men and women who, like them, above all have servants.

I feel reasonably sure that we would not choose the millionaires or the industrial and commercial magnates, though these, in what that has happened to them, suggest a form of blessing that could hardly have been anticipated.

A striking fact of our time is the way in which great fortunes, that could have found little moral sanction in the ruthless and often illegal ways in which they were built up, have found a rather real sanctity in the ways in which they are being devoted to service.

It has been said that God makes the wrath of men to praise His. The way of men when they least intend it often bear witness to the rightness and truth of what Jesus taught concerning the kingdom not of this world and the Beatitudes that belong to it.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—When Charlie Gunter was hailed before a U.S. Commissioner on charges of making moonshine whisky in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, he explained he was "possum huntin'."

This satisfied the commissioner that he wasn't moonshining. But it resulted in a 30-day suspended sentence anyway. "Possum huntin'" is illegal in the park.

Invented by Thaddeus Fairbanks in 1830, the lever scale was the first contribution to the science of weight in 2,000 years.

matter of FACT

Those kids of sweet 16 who think they have the world by the tail had better forget it. They are on their way downhill. It's the 10-year-old who's sitting on top of the world. Ten is the healthiest year of a person's life. He has outgrown the worst of the childhood diseases. He's too young to start getting the chronic diseases that plague older people. Most deaths among the adventurous 10-year-olds are accidental.

Takes More Than a Stamp to Reach 'Constituent'; Broom Closet by Another Name Still Broom Closet

BY JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—A letter returned to Sen. Karl Mundt (R-S.D.) had this notation on the envelope:

"Deceased — Left No Forwarding Address."

STROLLING DOWN the corridor of a government building, Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.) did a fast double-take when he saw a sign on a door which read:

"4156 General Services Administration
Region 3, Public Buildings Service
Buildings Management Division
Utility Room, Custodial"

"What does all that mean?" Wright asked a passer-by.

The man answered:

"Broom closet."

PUN OF THE WEEK popped out at a dinner tossed by the Cooperative Food Distributors of America when the winner of a new automobile was announced. He turned out to be Gordon Rissler, mayor of Greeley, Colo. Sitting next to him was Colorado Republican Sen. Gordon Allott.

When Rissler was asked if he attributed his good fortune to anything special, he cracked:

"Luck. I had Allot at my table."

ONE OF THE MOST interesting things about visiting King Mahendra of Nepal is his clothes. He wears a long tunic, jodhpurs (riding breeches) and an unbuttoned double-breasted coat. The tunic is longer than the coat and caused some Washingtonians to think that the king had forgotten to tuck in his shirttail.

But the best clothes commentary came from a tourist. Upon noticing the king's jodhpurs, the tourist exclaimed:

"Dig those crazy leotards."

IN ADDITION to being supreme ruler of Nepal, King Mahendra is also regarded as a god. An example of the awe in which he is held took place at a National Press Club luncheon during the question and answer session.

After explaining the first question to the king and receiving his whispered answer the Nepalese translator announced:

"Here is how His Majesty has COMMANDED me to answer the question."

LIKE MANY Republican congressmen, Rep. Bill Ayres of Ohio has an elephant paperweight on his desk. This particular elephant, however, doesn't have tusks.

They were broken off recently when the statuette was accidentally dropped by Rep. John Dent (D-Pa.).

What bothers Ayres most about the accident is that Dent kept one of the tusks and displays it at parties as "the trophy I brought back from my last hunting expedition into Republican territory."

In Hollywood

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Have you ever felt while watching Gary Cooper on the screen that subconsciously you were admiring Abe Lincoln?

Or that Marilyn Monroe isn't really Marilyn Monroe, she's Cleopatra?

It's all part of a theory of mine, based on years of observation, that some people are bigger box office stars than others simply because, by some accident of looks or manner, they represent certain symbols in the public's mind.

The Cleopatra symbol — also called the sex symbol — is a movie perennial. It started with Theda Bara but really got going with Clara Bow. Then came Jean Harlow, Betty Grable, Rita Hayworth and Finally Miss Monroe.

The Abe Lincoln symbol is epitomized by the strong, silent, lanky screen hero. Cooper is a prime modern example along with Jimmy Steuart, Henry Fonda and Gregory Peck.

All say little but their actions are eloquent.

Then there's the Napoleonic image — the tough, little guy with a knack for organizing the strategy. Jimmy Cagney, the late Humphrey Bogart and Frank Sinatra fit this category.

Sinatra, Elizabeth Taylor and Kim Novak are among the industry's biggest stars because they represent more than one image. Sinatra is Napoleonic but he's also Don Juan.

Miss Taylor examplifies the beauty image — the Helen of Troy symbol — but she more than holds her own as the sex — or Cleopatra — symbol and also is Madame Dubarry, the femme fatale. Kim is the sex and beauty symbols joined.

Then there's the George Washington symbol — the strong, taciturn leader who will pull us through no matter what the odds. This is John Wayne, who else?

The Francois Villon symbol — the original beatnik image—is Marlon Brando. He, along with the late James Dean, represents the non-conformists ever present in society.

There are other symbols — the all-American type — Bing Crosby, William Holden, Rock Hudson, Doris Day and Esther Williams.

Glenn Ford, current box office king, is the all-American type but he's also got a little of the Don Juan, George Washington and Abe Lincoln symbols in him. No wonder he's tops as a ticket seller.

There is one flaw in this symbol theory — two of the biggest stars of the last 30 years don't fit any.

Clark Gable and Cary Grant actually are symbols in themselves. Producers nowadays look at young actors and label them Gable or Grant types.

When Margaret Mitchell wrote "Gone With the Wind," almost everyone who read the book commented on how closely Rhett Butler resembled Gable

Something New for Oldsters —College Course at a Home

BY MARIE DAERR

"We're kept so busy now, we hardly have a spare minute. Now they want us to take a college course!"

Made with a smile, this comment came from a resident of a home for older people.

It was inspired by a project which other similar institutions might consider for their programs.

Very soon, at least 12 of the retirement home's "family" of 65 will begin studying "The Bible as Literature."

The course, consisting of eight hour-long sessions of lecture and discussion once a week, was set up with the help of a nearby university.

Classes will meet in the home. There will be formal registration. There will be homework. And, when the course is finished, there will be graduation certificates.

The $12 fee will be split equally three ways—between residents, the university and the home.

The course was the brain child of the home's new director. She approached the home's residents. The occasion was one of her coffee hours, a Monday-afternoon institution in the home recreation plan that combines music, refreshments and discussion of any topic from last night's dessert to the home's expansion program.

Some of the residents said they'd be afraid to try school again. But enough were interested to make the project worth trying.

A representative of the general studies division of the university then paid several visits to the home.

"What would you like to study?" she asked.

The residents said they'd feel at home with the Bible. So it was decided to build the course around such subjects as how the Bible was put together and why the Psalms were written.

It will be a pilot study for the university, to be reported on later.

Launching similar projects would be a good job for libraries, schools and other agencies.

Q—My wife and I get social security. Must we report to Internal Revenue the interest from our savings account, which we use for expenses?"—J. E. F.

A—Yes, you must report it. But, with a combined personal exemption of $2,400, you should have no income tax worries on that score.

Q—My husband is drawing $100 social security. On May 1, I will be 62. If I apply for social security then, how much will I draw? Would it be better to wait until I am 65?—Mrs. R. J.

A—At 65, you will be entitled to half your husband's payments, or $50. At 62, you can get three-fourths of the $50, or $37.50. If you wait longer, you will get an additional twenty-five thirty-sixths of 1 per cent for each month you are older than 62 when applying. If you choose the reduced amount, the payments will continue at this lower rate even after you reach 65

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev has poured a dose of cold water on any optimism that the summit meeting in Paris 10 days from now may accomplish something.

But that's what the Western leaders have been doing for weeks anyway. There have been two extraordinary features about the Western preparations for the summit, preparations which began last September:

1. They haven't produced a new idea to hit the Soviets with.

2. They are rooted in a let's stand still and see what happens attitude.

Khrushchev has never given up on the demands he started making in November 1958: That the West get its troops out of West Berlin; and that it sign separate peace treaties with West and Communist East Germany.

The West refuses to do either. And recently Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon made a speech saying the West wouldn't budge. It wasn't new. The Western leaders had already said that much.

But Dillon made it sound, for whatever his reason, very fiery. It wasn't really very fiery for down further, in the fine print, Dillon said the West would be glad to settle for just not rocking the boat awhile.

When you put these various Western positions and statements together it's easy to understand —particularly if you're Soviet — why Khrushchev blasted the West in a speech Thursday.

It's almost as if he were saying: "What do you think I am, a patsy?"

He did something else, too. He laid the groundwork for blaming the West, in the eyes of the rest of the world, if the summit is a failure.

Even Khrushchev's brutal crack about Vice President Richard M. Nixon was understandable, from the Soviet viewpoint.

It's still puzzling why President Eisenhower thought it necessary to announce that if the summit meeting lasts more than a week, and he has to come home, he'll let Nixon sit in at the summit for him.

Nixon seems to be a special kind of poison to Khrushchev. And last month before some editors here Nixon explained, in a way which couldn't endear him to Khrushchev, how he'd handle things at the summit.

Nixon said he thinks Khrushchev would like to see progress at the summit "because, realist that he is, he is concerned by some hard facts of international life."

And at another point the vice president said, "We can rightly approach the summit with full confidence that the spokesmen of the free world, rather than Mr. Khrushchev, represent the tide of history."

So Khrushchev hit back at Nixon. He said letting him sit in at the summit would be like sending a "goat to take care of the cabbage."

The way Khrushchev emphasized the shooting down of an American plane over Soviet territory indicated two things which, put together, probably explains his reasons for making the speech in the first place:

1. He wants the West to know his fairly mild and pleasant speeches of the past few months don't indicate he's turned to jelly.

2. Is the West is talking tough about the summit—in the belief such an attitude will soften him up and induce him to make concessions—it's wrong.

Trying to link his speech in with the various Communist party shifts announced at the same time seems far-fetched. From here the shifts indicated no profound shakeup but rather adjustments for the sake of efficiency.

'Free' Happiness Abounds; Why Not Gather Some?

"Much happiness is overlooked because it doesn't cost anything," someone once said.

Are you missing out on any "free" happiness, such as—

- Being deeply and genuinely pleased over the good fortune of a friend?
- Taking time to enjoy such rich but free pleasures as watching a sunset, going into the fields to pick wild flowers, listening intently to a bird's song?
- Enjoying the companionship of a child—your own or someone else's?
- Cultivating a flower garden to give pleasure to yourself and to anyone who passes by?
- Reading books that are stimulating enough to make you pause and think and to add depth to your own understanding of others?
- Doing something for someone else, not for thanks or to build up your own ego, but simply because another person needs help and you are happy to be able to give it?
- Using your hands to create something beautiful—if it is only a flower arrangement that pleases your eye?
- Taking time to listen to the person who wants to tell you his troubles, instead of considering him a bore and trying to change the subject as hurriedly as possible?
- Finding time for some quiet, peaceful moments when you don't feel pushed or hurried or impatient?
- Listening to music that lifts your spirits?
- Writing a letter to a friend who lives far away in order to keep a friendship alive?
- Saving up an amusing incident to share with someone else?
- Counting your blessings?

Royal Hawaiian Weddings Were Lavish and Unhurried

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food And Markets Editor

Our newest state, Hawaii, has a history of wedding feasts quite as sumptuous as that of Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones. Some of this year's American brides may want their reception to be like those of princesses in earlier times in the Islands.

The guests did not arrive at the wedding feast at a given hour. They came whenever they cared—some early in the morning, others late in the afternoon. No one went home in unseemingly haste. The early Hawaiians believed that by eating together the family grew together. The wedding feast was a sacred thing. All of the relatives and friends of the bride and groom were invited. The couple always sat together at the head of the table. The feasting took many hours as there was much singing and dancing of the hula. After the newly married couple had finished eating as much as possible, they were taken into their new home and blessed by the alii (royalty). But the feast did not end then. The relatives and friends continued to eat as long as the food lasted, sometimes 3 or 4 days.

The basic food of the wedding feast was most often the kalua pig, a whole roasted pig baked in an underground pit or "imu." Also ducks, geese, turkeys; different varieties of turtle, salmon, a large selection of fish (dried, raw or steamed); stewed chicken mixed with cooked taro tops and coconut cream, baked bananas (maia kalua), and sweet potatoes (uwala kalua). These foods comprised the main part of the feast. Along with these foods were served, on ti leaves, Island fruits, papayas, breadfruit, melon, bananas, coconut, sugar cane, pineapples, avocadoes, lichee nuts, mangos and guavas. Also many varieties of seaweed or "limu." And always red sea salt (alai) as a condiment.

The feast was held under palm trees. The table was set on ti leaves placed on the ground and decorated with ferns and wild flowers. Leis were made from the blossoms. It was an unhurried affair in a delightful atmosphere—a meeting of friends, a time of laughter, music and entertainment for the newly married couple and their friends.

Hawaiian Wedding Punch

(This makes between 150 and 200 servings in small punch cups, depending upon size of the cups and amount of dilution, and whether or not it includes rum.)

Four and one-half cups orgeat syrup, 6 cans (46-ounce each) pineapple juice, 9 cups lemon juice, 6 fifths light rum, optional.

Mix together and pour over large block of ice in punch bowl several hours before party time so that it can chill and dilute.

Note: If you have difficulty obtaining orgeat syrup, make it this easy way: Place 3 to 4 packages of almonds in your food blender (add enough milk to blend thickly); blend until almonds are completely crushed. Or use your meat grinder. After grinding, add enough milk to make a thick paste. Add one cup milk, one cup water, eight tablespoons sugar, and enough almond extract to give as strong an almond flavor as you like. Boil for 20 minutes. Cool.

Princess Kaiulani Wedding Punch (nonalcoholic)

(Makes about 6 quarts, or 50 half-cup servings.)

Four cups boiling water, 1 cup tea leaves, 4 cups sugar, 4 cups cold water, 12 cups pineapple juice (fresh, frozen, canned), 2 cups tart juice (guava, lemon, lime, passion fruit).

Add boiling water to tea leaves, let stand 5 minutes, then strain, add sugar and stir until dissolved. Cool. Add other ingredients, chill. Serve in punch bowl with block of ice.

Monday's Dinner: Tomato juice, cold sliced lamb, currant jelly, scalloped potatoes, buttered broccoli, hot biscuits, butter or margarine, applesauce, cookies, coffee, tea, milk.

New Trends In U.S.: Farmers Mix Feeds, Dealers Feed Stock

Rising sales of feed-handling equipment reveal a growing interest in on-the-farm feed processing, a University of Illinois agricultural economist reports.

R. J. Mutti says that farmers' increasing interest in feed processing on farms may be traced to several developments:

Larger livestock enterprises are making an investment in feed-processing equipment particularly feasible on farms with abundant grain supplies and unused labor and storage facilities.

The desire to control supplement intake and to raise more uniform animals has encouraged more use of complete rations. Promotion of the grain bank plan for storing grain and preparing feed has also supported the feeding of complete rations.

Rising costs have stimulated some farmers to cut expenses and use more of their own labor. Labor-saving equipment on farms has released more of the operator's time for other activities. One of these has been feed preparation.

Farmers have several choices in setting up a feed-processing system on the farm:

They may grind their own grain and mix a complete commercial supplement with it. With this system annual fixed costs need not exceed $360. With variable costs of 35 cents a ton, Mutti estimates that processing costs would total about $3.95 a ton for processing 100 tons a year and drop to about $1.25 a ton for 400 tons.

Vitamins And Minerals

Other farmers are buying a protein ingredient, such as soybean meal, and mixing it with a fortified vitamin-mineral premix.

Still others may buy their minerals, a bulky and relatively low-priced ingredient, separately from the protein supplement and the vitamin premix. A few farmers are also buying vitamins and mixing all the different ingredients on the farm. These latter two operations take additional mixing equipment and a greater knowledge of nutrition than the other methods.

Not Always Best

Not all livestock producers, however, will find farm feed processing feasible, Mutti points out. Some livestock producers may not want to change to complete rations. Their present system may be using land, labor and buildings efficiently.

Some farmers will not have a large enough enterprise to make the necessary investment in equipment or to use truckloads of feed in a reasonable time.

Some will not have the needed storage facilities. Nearby elevators will provide storage space at more reasonable cost than building new storage on the farm.

Some farmers will not have the capital or will not want to make the needed investment. This will be particularly true of tenant farmers or those who do not want to expand because of health, age or off-farm employment.

Feeders may want advisory service or credit that would not be readily available if they operated their own farm feed mill.

Or a farmer may be able to buy a feed already prepared at a price that would not make farm processing worth while. A farmer may find that hiring custom services gives him the chance to expand his farm business without hired labor.

Mutti reports that feed dealers are modifying their businesses to keep pace with new trends and demands by farmer customers. Some firms continue to serve customers who need storage, delivery, grinding, mixing, credit and management services. A few are acting as agents for farmers in purchasing ingredients in large-volume lots.

An increasing number of feed dealers have gone into livestock production directly. Since these operations can now be carried out in confinement without large investments in land, anyone with labor, capital and management "know-how" can integrate his operations.

City 4-H Club May Be Formed

A group of 18 Jacksonville boys have indicated interest in forming a city 4-H club and a meeting will be held at Farm Bureau hall Monday, May 9, to discuss the program and, perhaps, organize a club.

Bob Hayward, Jr., assistant farm adviser, announces the meeting, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. Parents are urged to attend.

Among the national 4-H projects that can be completed by members living in cities are: photography, handicraft, etomology, forestry, home grounds improvement, indoor gardening, outdoor gardening, rabbits, wild life conservation, bird study, dog care, pony or horse care.

P-A-G hybrids are worth up to $50 more per bag of seed

Every year, hundreds of side-by-side comparative yield tests are made to prove P-A-G hybrid performance. 15,776 of these on-the-farm tests show that P-A-G out-yielded the average of other hybrids by more than 9 bushels of #2 shelled corn per acre. Figuring a planting rate of 6 acres per bushel of seed, that's an extra $50 profit from each bushel of seed planted.

Genuine Pfister Hybrids can return greater profits from your corn acreage. This spring, plant all P-A-G . . . order soon to reserve your supply.

4-H Federation Names Lynnville Youth President

Gordon Heaton of the Lynnville Hustlers 4-H club was elected president of the Morgan County Federation when it met last week at Farm Bureau hall.

Other officers chosen were Bob Hadden, North Side Ag, vice president; Marylin Schumacher, Chapin Top Notchers, secretary; Allan Anderson, Victory Ag, treasurer; Roland Tomhave, North Side Ag, reporter; Mike Anderson, Berea, and Karen Smith, Chapin Top Notchers, recreation leaders.

The Federation changed several of the by-laws. From now on officers will be elected for a year, instead of six months; reports will be made annually instead of semi-annually, and officers will be nominated by committee rather than from the floor. The committee must present two slates of nominees and officers may also be elected by write-in votes.

The group will run a refreshment stand in connection with the annual "Share-the-Fun" program, which will be held this year at Franklin High school on Wednesday, June 15.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

WHAT CAN CONGRESS DO ABOUT WHEAT?

Old Man Congress has a "bear by the tail"—wheat! But his grip is slipping. And he is trying to find a safe way to let go—or to get a tighter grip.

Congress is considering half a dozen bills. These bills have various and conflicting goals such as (1) getting more money for wheat growers, (2) reducing costs to government, and (3) reducing international irritations caused by our surplus disposal programs.

Wheat is, perhaps, our biggest agricultural problem. Congress and the public, including many farmers, are concerned about the costs of the present wheat price programs. Many growers are dissatisfied with prices, or their acreage allotments—or both.

The problem is too big for a full discussion here, but we can list some of the basic facts about the markets for our wheat. Any wheat program will have to deal with these facts.

PRODUCTION. Over the five years ending next June 30, our average annual production of wheat was 1.096 million bushels. This provided 99 percent of our supply. The other one percent, about 9 million bushels a year, was imported from Canada. This was mostly low-grade feed wheat.

USED FOR FOOD—44 PERCENT. The average annual use of wheat for food in the United States in the five-year period was 486 million bushels, or 44 percent of the production. For many years the annual use of wheat for food has held very close to this figure. The increase in population has been offset by decreasing use of bread and other foods from wheat. If consumers were willing, Congress could establish higher prices for wheat used for food in this country. This would not materially reduce the domestic use of wheat for food. But U. S. consumers already pay about 50 cents a bushel more than foreign buyers. Costs of any further increases would fall heaviest on the lower-income families, because they spend a larger share of their incomes for bread.

FOR SEED—6 PERCENT. An average of 64 million bushels was used each year for seed, 6 percent of production. The amount used for seed varies a little from time to time, depending upon the acreage planted.

FOR FEED—5 PERCENT. The average annual use of wheat for feed was 54 million bushels, or 5 percent of production. The amount used for feed ranged from 39 million bushels in 1957-58 to 73 million in 1958-59. The amount used depends upon the quality of wheat and local crop conditions. Relatively larger amounts of wheat were used for feed before the government priced it out of the market. Raising prices of feed wheat would reduce consumption still further, since many other feeds are available to feed manufacturers and to farmers.

FOR EXPORT—40 PERCENT. Average annual exports of wheat during these latest five years were 442 million bushels, or 40 percent of production. India is by far the biggest buyer. Eight other countries each took 10 million to 40 million bushels, and 30 countries took 1 million to 10 million bushels each. About one-third of these export sales were made at prices 50 to 60 cents a bushel less than U. S. market prices, and two-thirds were disposals under P. L. 480 "foreign aid" programs. Congress has no way of forcing foreign nations to pay more for our wheat. They can buy from other exporters—Canada, Russia, Argentina, Australia, France, Italy, Turkey, and other exporting countries.

The above uses took 95 percent of the wheat produced in the past five years. The remaining 5 percent was added to carry-over stocks.

The 1960 price supports for soybeans, oats, barley and grain sorghums will be at least as high as those for 1959 crops. The minimum price support for corn will be at the national rate of $1.06. This is six cents a bushel below 1959 supports.

Chart Plans For 'Pigs To Haiti'

PLANS TO SEND 125 purebred pigs from Morgan and Scott counties to Haiti were developed last week when this group met at MacMurray College. The shipment is scheduled to be assembled on Wednesday, June 1. The hogs will be trucked to Miami and there will be flown to Port au Prince, where they will be distributed to 4-H members and farmers.

Any persons desiring to contribute either a pig, or cash, are invited to see any of the above.

Sixteen pigs were donated by Morgan county residents during the CROP campaign held last November. Donors were Robert Darley, Claude Kinnett, Vincent Flinn, James McKean, Martin L. Combs, Warren Lakamp, Fred Lakamp, Junior McFarland, Louis Boddy, A. J. Stewart, Dale Mawson, Roy E. Smith, Harold Swain & Sons, Midwest Order Buyers and Robert Kircher.

At the same time $1,792.36 in cash was given by 500 Morgan residents to help finance the project. Scott county people gave $608 in cash and the promise of some pigs.

A list of early pig donors in Scott county will be published in next Sunday's "Plowland."

H. Yates Potter and Farm Adviser Hewitt have been appointed to select the pigs that will go to Haiti. The pigs will be accompanied to their destination by Willit Pierce, vocational agriculture instructor at Winchester High school, and Tom Lashmett, an outstanding 4-H member of Scott county. Upon their return they will report to interested groups what they found there.

The project is sponsored by the Christian Rural Overseas Program in an effort to enhance the living standards of the island.

May 18—Final Date To Seek Corn Loans

Morgan county farmers who desire a government loan on their 1959 corn must file application at the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office on East State street by May 18, announces Wallace T. Hembrough, office manager. All loan documents must be approved before the close of business May 31.

The May 18 shut off date is necessary to enable the county office to process the applications, determine eligibility of the storage structure and commodity, and have the loan documents typed, signed, and approved by May 31.

Loans on corn stored in approved warehouses and purchase agreements may be obtained through the close of business May 31. An early shut off date is not necessary since inspections are not required.

The loan rate for Morgan county is $1.14 per bushel for corn grading No. 3 or better, provided it meets the moisture requirements.

The service charge for obtaining a loan on farm-stored commodities is one cent per bushel or minimum of $3, whichever is greater, and the service charge for warehouse-stored commodities and purchase agreements is ⅛c per bushel or minimum of $1.50, whichever is greater.

The purchase agreement contract is a guarantee of the loan rate when the corn is delivered to commodity credit corporation at maturity date which is July 31, provided the corn meets the moisture and grade requirements. Corn under a purchase agreement is not mortgaged, and it may be sold or disposed of in any manner prior to maturity date without obligation.

ANNUAL 4-H PICNIC AT CAMP MAY 22

The Western Illinois 4-H camp on Stewardship Sunday.

That will be the place and the time for the Morgan county 4-H picnic. A potluck dinner will be served at 1 p.m.

This year Stewardship Sunday, which stresses conservation of soil and water resources, will be May 22.

All 4-H members and their families are invited to attend.

The program for the day will be arranged by the joint adult 4-H committees of the counties and will include recreation, a tour of the camp and, if weather is favorable, swimming off the camp dock.

CONSERVATION TOUR SET FOR SATURDAY

The 4-H soil conservation tour will be held Saturday, May 14.

It will conclude the school taught last January and February by Farm Adviser George Trull, SCS Farm Planner Ted Pierce and Bob Hayward, Jr., assistant farm adviser.

The group will leave Farm Bureau hall at 8:30 a.m. The group will inspect terraces, contour plowing, structures, ponds, tiling, grass waterways and other conservation practices.

RURAL YOUTH PLANS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

It will be Boys vs. Girls when the Morgan County Rural Youth campaigns for new members the rest of this month and through June 23.

The men's squad of solicitors will be led by Charles Leischner of Arenzville and Miss Rita Clayton of Waverly heads the distaff side. The losers will pick up the tab for a hamburger fry to be held in July.

The next scheduled event is an ice cream social to be held at Nichols Park on Thursday, May 19.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

A small crowd, 35 people, were in attendance Tuesday, April 19, at the Dixon Springs bull sale. But, for such a small crowd the bidding was active, and 11 performance-tested Hereford bulls moved out for an average price of $417.

Sale Top

Phillip Schoettle of Golconda bought the top-selling bull for $600. This bull was a top doer from birth, having gained 2.9 pounds a day the first winter following weaning, and over two pounds a day from birth to one year of age.

Schoettle consigns calves each year to the Egyptian Livestock association annual feeder calf sale, and last year placed a number of calves in the top-selling pen. These calves were sired by a Dixon Springs performance-tested bull which Schoettle purchased three years ago.

Half-Brother to Vandalia

A half-brother of the Schoettle bull went to the Illinois State Farm at Vandalia for $515. This bull had an equally good record, gaining over three pounds a day on performance test and over two pounds a day from birth to one year of age.

All Bulls Sell Locally

Tom Logsdon, Shawneetown, purchased one of the top three gaining bulls and one of the more typey bulls of the sale for $550. Ned Walton of Anna purchased two bulls. Other buyers were Benson Siedler, Harrisburg; Lowell Tison, Eldorado; C. W. Ozburn, Murphysboro; Clyde Berry, Thompsonville; Reedus Maynor, Simpson; and Max Wilson, Ridgway.

Bulls From Station Herd

The bulls offered in this sale were above average in gaining ability, a highly heritable characteristic, which means they should sire rapid gaining calves. They were selected from the Station herds — rapid gaining, early fattening and control lines. But regardless of the line from which the bulls came, they all sold on their individual performance as rapid gainers.

Buyers at this sale were interested in rate of gain and the three top gaining bulls sold for the greatest number of dollars. Type scores on each bull were also available and of course each bull was visually inspected for type by the buyers at the sale. Type or conformation and rate of gain can go together, and our better doing bulls had both.

Good legume pasture can help to cut the feed bill of pregnant sows. In University of Illinois tests, sows getting 2.5 pounds of corn per head daily on good legume pastures produced litters equal to those from sows getting more grain and some protein supplement. Minerals were fed free choice to all lots.

Giant Foxtail Costly, Says J. C. Hackleman

"Farmers are going to be doubly careful this year in their attempt to avoid out of pocket expense," says James C. Hackleman in the May issue of the Illinois Crop Improvement Assn. newsletter.

"On some things," he continues, "they may be able to reduce costs without seriously endangering their income. However, we wonder if weeds, giant foxtail in particular, in corn and soybean fields are not one place where money saved might very well be money lost. This would be especially true in those fields which are known to be heavily infested with giant foxtail."

Hackleman quotes the results of a three-year test made by Dr. Fred Slife and Dr. E. L. Knake in an attempt to determine how much giant foxtail growing in corn or soybean rows reduces yields.

In the tests the area between the rows was cultivated to control the weeds. However, the foxtail was allowed to grow in the rows, after thinning the weeds to a pre-determined stand.

The check rows, in the three-year test, without weeds of any kind, averaged 93.5 bushels of corn and 38.5 bushels of soybeans per acre.

One giant foxtail every 24 inches of row reduced the yields to 90.4 bushels of corn and 37.1 bushels of soybeans.

One giant foxtail every 12 inches: 86.4 and 36.8.

One every four inches: 85.0 and 36.2.

One every inch: 78.4 and 31.9.

"A similar experiment was conducted in 1959," Hackleman observes, "to study the losses caused by pigweed. One year's result indicated that losses from broadleaf weeds, of which pigweed might be considered typical, are compared to those in the table above. In this case, however, 2-4-D can be used in corn to control the pigweed.

"Knowing the seriousness of the infestation of giant foxtail in fields to be planted to corn or soybeans and from past experience estimating the probable stand of the weeds in the row, producers will be able to estimate more accurately the loss they may expect and, therefore, how much they can afford to pay for pre-emergence chemicals — Randox or Alanap 3—which have proven effective three years out of four. Another impelling reason for controlling giant foxtail is the fact this weed has been added to the list of noxious weeds in Illinois.

"Since 2-4-D is not effective on grasses and cannot be used as a post-emergence treatment in soybeans, it is necessary to use the Randox or Alanap 3. They are somewhat more costly, but by applying in a band—12 to 14 inches—over the row the amount of chemical required, the cost per acre can be reduced.

"Giant foxtail can be controlled in corn by pre-emergence applications of Randox, Simazine or Atrazine. For more complete information on pre-emergence applications for weed control see Agronomy News number 137 and 133. Copies of these are available."

Guns And Linens Looted From Club House On River

JERSEYVILLE—Burglars invaded the Dun River Club House in the Grafton locality sometime late Tuesday night or during the early hours of Wednesday and stole a number of items amounting to several hundred dollars.

The burglary was reported Wednesday following its discovery to the office of Sheriff Howard Perdun and an investigation of the breakin was made immediately. Sheriff Perdun reported Thursday that the burglary was committed some time between 3 p.m. May 3rd and 6 a.m. May 4th.

The burglars were apparently in search of firearms for among the items listed as taken were one Remington Nylon 66 automatic shot gun, one 410 combination shot gun and rifle, one model 11 Winchester 12 guage automatic shot gun.

DON'T SHAVE YOUR LAWN!

Many Illinois home owners are shaving their lawns to within an inch of their life. C. E. Ackerman, University of Illinois, expert on the subject, suggests that blue grass and fescue lawns should not be cut shorter than two inches. Mower blades should be kept sharp to reduce damage to leaves.

ONE ADVANTAGE OF SIZE

Larger operations may have cost advantages. Farm records show that farmers averaging 43 litters of hogs a year, produced pork for about $2.00 a hundred less than farmers raising only 11 litters.

IT'S STILL YOUR BEST BUY

The average U.S. citizen will eat about $400. worth of food a year. Food prices have gone up only 2% from January 1952 to January 1960. Other cost of living items went up 15% while disposable income was going up 28%.

Mother's Day Flowers

Linda Lee Dean, age 8, Griggsville drew this gay picture of Spring flowers that look as if they were just waiting to be picked to be given to Mommy for Mother's Day.

Linda may come in any day now for her JUNIOR JOURNALIST PENCIL and JUNIOR PRESS CARD to which all are entitled who have anything they have drawn or written printed on the Junior page.

Mother's Day Message

By Mary Pence Claywell

Dear Mother:

Today we want to tell you . . . though we're often slack we know, and quite forget to mention it . . . but Mom, we love you so.

It would take a year to tell you in the way we really should, so we're writing you a letter that is easily understood; and as we write it, Mothers, may our words reflect the scenes from "Babyhood to Manhood," while you re-live in dreams, the present, past, or future . . . the sorrow, joy, or strife, we flash in fond remembrance across the screen of life.

Scene Four: Alone, dear Mom sits dreaming in her favorite easy chair, while she tears a letter open . . . written with the greatest care.

Soon the next four years have flown, and Tom or Rose or Jane, of Mag are out of college . . . but she's loving them the same!

Tom perhaps, is now a teacher; lovely Rose, a nurse may be; Mag and Jane may have a family and be living happily!

Mother may once more be singing "Rock-a-bye" so soft and low, while she rocks her little grandchild . . . as she did her's long ago!

Back To Today: These will be life's sweetest memories when, Mother, we recall the countless things you do for us each day while we are small; and how when problems puzzle us, as years go speeding on, how much it means to know that you are sharing every one!

"Queen for a day," across the world . . . you're crowned and honored, Mom. But Mother, listen closely, when this glad day is done, our love will live and linger on, and this we would impart: "You'll reign a Queen forever, on a throne within our hearts!"

Your Children.

Scene One: "Rock-a-by my baby," tenderly and low, as the dreamy shadows softly come and go; Golden curls like silken strands, against her bosom fair . . . just a little bit of Heaven . . . in an old-time rocking chair!

Scene Two: Six years old, and school days; Mother kisses Jane good-bye, or Tom or Rose or Maggie . . . with dew drops in her eyes; waves from out the doorway, softly calls each name . . . her face just like an angel's . . . in a humble, hallowed frame!

She follows through the school years, still loving them each day . . . cooking, sewing, mending, and smoothing out the way of trails their young feet traverse, as she did in baby days, when they suffered bumps and bruises . . . and she kissed their tears away!

Scene Three: How the years keep speeding onward . . . Mother sits by Father's side, as they graduate from High School . . . and she wipes her eyes with pride. But she straightens up with courage as they quietly put away, the sweet memories of childhood, launching out into life's bay!

Rockets And Space—

Can Spaceman Stand Noise Of Launching?

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Rockets are very noisy, as you probably know, and this noise can be quite harmful to man.

The men who fire rockets are protected from this noise, as well as the blast of the rocket's exhaust, by the thick walls of the concrete blockhouse.

But what protection will the man, or men, inside the space ship have? Will they be able to survive the noise and do their work effectively?

The Bio-Acoustics Branch of the Wright Aid Development Center's Aero Medical Laboratory believes it has enough data to answer some, but not all, of problems of the effects of sound on astronauts.

From this data they can generally estimate the noise levels outside a rocket ship during launch. No information is available on the noise and vibration inside during powered flight in space and re-entry, so a lot of study in these fields is planned.

Acoustic (sound) power produced during static (tied down) tests and launchings has been measured with rocket engines varying in thrust from 1,000 to 130,000 pounds. These rockets were the Snark, Jupiter, Bomarc, the X-2 and X-17. The data was produced by instruments placed near these rockets' motors before they were started.

With the information now at hand bio-acoustics scientists can give a wide estimate of the acoustic power any rocket can develop. This information is the starting point for making predictions of how much noise there will be inside a rocket so its effects on man and machines can be studied.

It's not the business of the bio-acoustics scientist to design space ships so that their noise won't harm the astronaut, or keep him from communicating with earth. But they do work with the engineers who do design space ships and advise them on the best type of design.

There are two main sources of noise in space ships during launch and right afterward; these are rocket and aerodynamic noise. Aerodynamic noise is caused by the rush of air over the ship. This is the same type of noise you hear when you ride in a car on a windy day.

The faster a vehicle moves the greater the aerodynamic noise generated. At the same time noise made by the running motor will decrease as the speed increases.

As a space ship reaches thinner air at higher altitudes the aerodynamic noise will decrease as the air producing it decreases. In space there is no air so there will naturally be no aerodynamic noise.

In space the only source of loud noise will be sound waves traveling through the inside of the ship when the motors are running. Sound waves can't travel in space like light and heat, they have to have something to travel in.

LET'S GO BIRDING—

Silver Jingle's Always There

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Those who think only of our many English or House Sparrows when they hear the word sparrow should get acquainted with other kinds of sparrows.

Sometime during the year there are at least 14 different kinds — some beautiful singers like the Fox Sparrow or the Song Sparrow; some, just chatterers, like the English Sparrow or the Grasshopper Sparrow. Some of these sparrows are very attractive; others appear a neutral brown.

Aside from the common English Sparrows, perhaps Field Sparrows are the most plentiful, but there really are not too many of them, as we feel toward the English Sparrows. Neither can our Field Sparrows boast of any unusual beauty.

It is merely a little brown bird with a clear breast and a pink bill. Its disposition is retiring and somewhat timid.

Yet the Field Sparrow is dear to us bird watchers. Early in the spring when we are hiking along the edges of pastures or thickets and the world still is in the clutch of cold silence, we may hear a pure and sweet series of notes running along into a hurried trill, ascending, descending, staying on the same pitch. This trill announces to us the welcome Field Sparrows.

As the spring advances, we are conscious of more Field Sparrows trilling from every prairie or weed thicket. Hiking along a road or trail, we always have company: the flitting Field Sparrows are always there.

When summer descends upon us and the hot open fields stretch on under the quivering heat, the Field Sparrow is as pert as ever. He never seems to wilt from the heat; instead, he seems to challenge the open sun and summer heat with his ringing trills. He is one of the few birds that will sing under such conditions.

Our Field Sparrow sings from dawn until dusk, from April through October. (A very few of these little sparrows stay with us during the winter and are then silent.) If we listen carefully to these trills, we can detect a varying pattern and tone quality in the morning song, the noon song, and the evening song.

Thoreau has poetically described the song in his statement: "The Rush Sparrow (local name for the Field Sparrow in his time) jingles her small change, pure silver, on the counter of the pastures." We can all enjoy some of these pure-silver jingles.

CQ RADIO HAMS—

Speech And Modulation

By Joseph A. Smith

To give meaning to your transmitter's R.F. carrier either key it using the International Morse Code or superimpose audio on that carrier.

You would do well to re-read, at this point, the short section "Keying And Modulation" found in the booklet "How To Become A Radio Amateur."

While the majority of smaller rigs employ some form of cathode keying (as for example the DX-40, Viking Adventurer, Globe Scout, DX-20 etc.), there are other types of keying such as screen grid, blocked control grid, and keyer tube methods as well. Each has its advantage.

The A.R.R.L. Handbook section on "Keying And Break-In" is MUST reading for every serious minded amateur. The little "Powerhouse" at this QTH can be keyed either in the 6146 final amplifier cathode alone at one jack drive second jack that is in series with both the oscillator and final amplifier cathodes so that both stages can be keyed at the same time.

Also a meter can be plugged into the first jack (which is in series with the 6146 cathode circuit) so that cathode current can be read during tune up.

In case key clicks are present on your C.W. note a key click filter may be needed; see Handbook for simple R.F.C. and condenser type filters. When monitoring your C.W. note over the Ham receiver, you must first tune in a harmonic (2nd or 3rd) on his receiver, reduce both R.F. and audio gain receiver controls, and ground the antenna imput terminal to prevent receiver overloading of the R.F. amplifier front end.

Any tendency to chirp will be readily noticeable as are key clicks. If an oscillator appears to be sluggish as it is keyed, you would at first try different crystals (if they're being used), next try re-adjusting the plate tank variables for best keying, or try a new oscillator tube, and, lastly, reduce the loading of the final amplifier a bit.

The matter of a practical low-power break-in system will be covered later.

The use of voice in phone contacts necessitates the use of a mike, one or more speech-voltage amplifiers, and a power modulator amplifier. This last may consist of one or more tubes connected in AB1, AB2, or B type of operation on the Ip vs Eg tube characteristic curve.

The plate impedance (Z) of the tube or tubes must be matched to the final tubes impedence when conventional plate type molulation is used. See Handbook for specific method of calculating this match of the modulation transformer.

History Of MacMurray

By Mary Ann Donovan

Editor's note: The following essay won first prize in the 8th grade section of the Morgan County Historical Association contest. Miss Donovan is a Jonathan Turner student. Other prize winning essays will appear on later Junior pages.

A NEW VENTURE

Before 1846 there were no colleges in the United States which would enroll women except Oberlin. Even in 1846 it was quite generally believed that in education women were inferior to men and that it was not necessary to educate women beyond the 3 "R's", but the frontier Methodists of Central Illinois through their tradition, felt it a responsibility to help educate the great wave of population.

The same year they founded the college known today as MacMurray College. From the beginning it was under the rule of their church.

The Illinois Annual Conference held in Springfield on Sept. 14, 1845, voted unanimously to establish an academy in Jacksonville. A year later the board of trustees held its first meeting in Jacksonville, Oct. 10, 1846.

The frontier Methodists took matters into their own hands. In 1851 the college became Illinois Conference Female Academy, which was neither planned nor administered by Easterners.

Peter Cartwright

The first president of the board was Peter Cartwright. He was the most famous pioneer preacher, a rough, vigorous man of action, who made an important contribution to the development of the middle west. He had a leading part in the founding of MacMurray College in 1846.

He attended the meetings of the board of trustees faithfully, and in many ways showed intense interest in the progress of the college. In 1861, when indebtedness of the college was so great that it looked as if the college would have to close, he made a contribution of $1,125 to save it.

In 1863 the name was changed to Illinois Female College. Then in 1889 it was again changed to Illinois Woman's College.

First President

The first president of the college was James Frazier Jaques, a man of French and Scotch ancestry. He was born in Posey county, Ind., coming to Jacksonville in 1839. He became president of the college at the age of 30 and remained president for seven years.

He brought the standards up to that of men's colleges of that day. After the war he was with the Freedmen's Bureau in the South until 1877. He died in 1898.

In 1908 the college secured recognition as a standard four-year college. In 1911 financial difficulties again appeared.

Sen. MacMurray Helps

Senator James E. MacMurray helped save the college. He also helped financially during the depression. In 1921 he was made president of the board.

His son, Donald, was also a member of the board for several years before his death in 1939. His widow then took his place.

James E. MacMurray as benefactor invested and loaned a total amount of $4,500,000. In 1930 the name was changed to MacMurray College for Women.

Open Men's College

In 1956 it became a coordinate college. The enrollment of men is steadily increasing. Its endowment is relatively large, but should double in the next 20 years.

The faculty deserves the highest praise. Their work is most important. It is hard to imagine a more conscientious or happier community of scholars anywhere.

New President

Dr. Gordon E. Michalson, Professor of Historical Theology at Garrett Biblical Institute, will become tenth president of MacMurray College July, 1 1960. He succeeds Dr. Louis W. Norris who resigned to accept the presidency of Albion College in Michigan. Dr. Nichalson believes that education should be used to train students for living not simply to make a living.

Throughout World The Status Of Mothers Rapidly Shifting

By NORMA GAUHN
AP Staff Writer

On this day dedicated to her honor, mom can look at the wide world around her and heave a sigh of contentment.

Not only are there more mothers than ever—as experts fretting about the global population explosion testify. But mothers and women the world around are less confined by traditional restrictions than ever before.

The relentless march of emancipation has put mothers into Parliament in Japan, in urban professional jobs in Turkey, made them doctors and scientists in the Soviet Union, lawyers in France and office workers in Thailand.

A survey on women's changing lives abroad, by key foreign bureaus of The Associated Press, shows more and more mothers are working outside the home.

Children may be left at government-run day nurseries, as in the Soviet Union or at home with nurse sitters, as in South Africa.

In most of the Western world women have won—and exercise—equal rights in law, politics, property and education. In Britain, a member of Parliament recently argued that emancipation has gone so far, action should be taken to raise the status of men to that of women.

Even in the Far East, long a feudal stronghold for subjugation of the weaker sex, women are wielding newfound powers.

In Thailand, the ladies—traditional in sarongs or modern in slacks—feel they are just about equal to American women. But many don't choose to be independent at the expense of family life.

South American women are teaching in universities; Norway has women taxi drivers and police patrols.

Sweden has admitted women as priests in the Lutheran State Church; Egypt is training women paratroopers; in Denmark women smoking cigars are a common sight.

In South Africa, on the other hand, a wife has practically no legal rights. She must even have her husband's written permission to open a banking account.

But, says Nola Gold of Johannesburg, "women are respected by South African men."

There are other exceptions to the feminine surge to power. In Turkey no harem-like restraints are imposed in big cities. But in farms and villages, custom still decrees a man's world.

In rural Turkey, if you see a woman at all she is minding children or working the fields. In local cafes and hangouts, it's men only. The husband rides the family donkey while the lady of the house trudges behind.

Egypt also illustrates two extremes. Last summer Cairo University coed Lila Nadia, machine-gun tucked under her arm, made her first plane jump as one of the first trainees of an Egyptian woman paratroop division.

Legally, Egyptian women have equal rights. Daughters whose mothers are still confined in harems may compete with men in almost all fields.

But practice may be quite different. Nearly all marriages are family arranged. And while some Egyptian women are pampered and idolized by their husbands, others are as hardworking as beasts of burden.

France has sought to balance equal rights for women within a framework that recognizes their leading role as homemakers.

Frenchwomen may envy the appliances and gadgets which ease housekeeping in America. But they criticize American wives for ruling their husbands—in French eyes the cause of the high U.S. divorce rate.

The double moral standard still prevails in France, but is disappearing among young couples as economics make support of a mistress more difficult for husbands.

In Japan, women may look docile but actually they are among the world's most determined and strong-willed. Since 1945 they have acquired voting rights, protection against divorce, a legal say in matters of inheritance and almost limitless opportunities in education and jobs.

This is a radical change from prewar times. Visitors to Japan see only the gentle obedience expected of women socially. But in most salaried homes husbands give their monthly paychecks to their wives, who handle the family accounts and provide their husbands with spending money.

In the Soviet Union, women get the same pay as men, not only by law but in practice. They hold many top jobs, including posts as factory foremen and labor brigade leaders; many Russian doctors are women.

In Sweden and Denmark, women feel they are the world's most emancipated both in sex and suffrage. Sweden has a National Assn. for Sexual Advice which sells and encourages the use of contraceptives by both married and unmarried persons.

In both nations the government gives free maternity care and cash allowances for children to mothers, married or not. In Sweden it has been said the government discourages matrimony by imposing a higher rate of income tax on married couples than single persons. Statistically, every sixth marriage ends in divorce.

In Poland, behind the iron curtain, housewives get few conveniences or luxuries. In their eyes, American women enjoy a dream life of ease. "For them, everything is perfect," says Wanda Szewczyk, who lives with her husband and two children in a two-room apartment.

It is hard to find a Polish woman who does not believe she would fare better in America, where many have relatives. Polish women raise the biggest families in Europe and also hold down fulltime jobs in industry, business or the communist administration.

In Argentina women enjoy a freedom only slightly less than men in business and politics. But by social custom a married woman never goes out with a male escort other than her husband. And only recently have schools been coeducational.

The woman rules the home and mothers day is a gala holiday. Prevailing Catholic influence opposes all divorce laws and permits only separations which forbid remarriage.

Seek Use Of Natural Gas At New Berlin

NEW BERLIN—At the regular meeting of the New Berlin village board Wednesday evening, the board signed a contract with Attorney Orville Foreman and with the engineers, Cassler and Associates, to proceed with necessary legal and engineering procedures to see if natural gas can be obtained for the village of New Berlin.

The attorney and engineer have been investigating this possibility for the board, and reported Wednesday that possibilities of obtaining natural gas for our community are more favorable at the present time than at anytime in the past five years.

If negotiations, which are lengthy, involved procedures in this particular field, are favorable to all concerned, it would be sometime before the new utility could be installed in New Berlin.

This spring, the village voters overwhelmed the polls by voting 10 to 1 in favor of a new village water system. At the present time, borings are being made at the sight of the dam southeast of New Berlin, and core samples to bedrock are being taken to determine the type of dam needed. As soon as this is completed, the village board will soon be ready to advertise for bids for construction of the water project.

Ashland M.Y.F. Plans Summer Mission Tour

ASHLAND — The MYF of the Methodist church served a delicious supper in the church basement Wednesday evening, and the purpose of this supper was to raise funds for this year's "Mission Tour." Their tour last year took them to several rural missions in the south. Included in that trip was the Henderson Settlement and Pittman Center, a school and medical center in the hills of Kentucky and Tennessee. They also had such educational opportunities as a visit to the Mammoth Cave, the Atomic Energy Center in Oak Ridge, historic Cumberland Gap and Lookout Mountain, sight of one of the decisive Civil War battles.

This year's trip will take them to Cincinnati, on through the Appalachin mountains to Washington, D.C. Here they plan to see the several government offices and historic monuments, as well as the National Board of Temperance headquarters of the Methodist church; National Headquarters of Goodwill Industries, and the American University which is a Methodist sponsored school for training of diplomats.

From Washington, they will go to New York, where they will visit the Church of All Nations; the Methodist Board of Missions which is in charge of Methodist Mission work throughout the world; mission work in the slum section of the city and as many other missions in the city as time will permit. They will be taken on a tour of the United Nations building, the Statue of Liberty, Rockefeller Center, etc. Dr. Alex Porteus, who was minister of the Pittsfield Methodist church until two years ago, has arranged for them to be guests at a television production.

As can be seen, the stress this year is on the city and the problems involved in the great metropolitan area. They will seek to find how the church along with all the others is seeking an answer to some of the problems.

Grace MYF Elects Officers

At a recent meeting of the Senior MYF, Grace Methodist Church, the following officers were elected to serve for the year 1960-61: president, Barbara Pigott; vice president, Nancy Heaton; secretary, Carolyn Williamson; treasurer, David Batty; Christian faith, Teryl Garrison; Christian fellowship, Carlene Miller and Beverly Trull; Christian outreach, Jim Henderson.

Christian witness, David Jones; commission on education, Barbara Trull; Christian citizenship, Larry Quigley. Directors, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Voelkel. Installation of officers will be held in the fall during the morning worship service.

NEW HOME SERIES

NO. 19

Simple, uncluttered lines distinguish the design of the attractive new home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Timmons, No. 583 Caldwell Street. Integration of the garage with the lines of the house extends the overall width. The exterior of horizontal White siding presents a neat and inviting appearance. A generous roof overhang extends over the entrance to form a sheltered entry. For added interest, the entry is outlined by an ornamental iron railing.

When you step inside the front door, you are in the large, inviting living room, with a triple-sectioned view window at the front, the room is well-proportioned with plenty of unbroken wall space. The walls decorated in a Sandalwood shade are offset by a Gardenia White Ceiling, wall-to-wall carpeting in a Sandy-Beige tone was chosen to complement the decor. Going on through the living room, a foyer permits passage to the dining alcove, entry to the basement stairway, also entrance to the garage. A door at the rear of the garage opens conveniently to the back patio. The dining alcove has been linked visually with the foyer and living room by repeating the Sandalwood shades for one wall, the other wall is linked to the open kitchen by repetition of the Camellia Pink color scheme of the kitchen. Adding a decorative touch is the Copper lighting fixture above the dining table, which gives ample central light, and may be adjusted to various heights. Twin windows face the patio.

The compact and efficient kitchen subjoins the dining alcove. The Butternut finish of the cabinets blends well with the Camellia Pink color theme. The Vinyl floor is a spatterdash pattern of Pink and Black on a Grey background. The Countertops are surfaced with Pink Formica dusted with Gold. Sliding door cabinets incorporated in the soffit are also Camellia Pink. A Copper hood over the range, and a corner Bric-A-Brac cabinet further complement the decor. The well-arranged kitchen features a broad expanse of counter space, and plenty of cupboard space, plus an extra large storage closet. The double sink is equipped with a disposo-well. Casement windows above the sink afford a view of the back lawn, and provide sufficient light and ventilation.

Swinging louvered cafe doors open from the kitchen to a hall, where a generous sized closet is situated to accommodate the wraps of both family and guests. Sandy-Beige carpeting is used wall-to-wall. The attic is reached by means of a scuttle in the ceiling. The bath, bedrooms, and living room open off of this hall.

The bathroom features a full tub with shower and is enclosed by a translucent sliding glass panel. A mirrored medicine chest, illuminated by fluorescent sidelights, surmounts the lavatory. ## Tax Deadlines

You Met Yours April 15, IRS Has Until May 31

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixty million Americans have just gone through the briar patch of income tax filing. Now the Internal Revenue Service is working at full steam to meet its own deadline.

Some 35 million citizens are due to get refunds—the average range is $110 to $113—and the law gives IRS only until May 31 to send them out. After that IRS has to pay a penalty, the same as you would if you missed your deadline.

At the moment, in IRS' three big service centers, in Lawrence, Mass., Kansas City, Mo., and Ogden, Utah, and in the Washington headquarters, punch card machines and computers are flipping the returns through various checks. But it may take two years, or longer, before IRS is ready to put your return on the shelf in a government warehouse.

At first, most returns undergo math verification. Last year 1,800,000 returns were inaccurate in arithmetic. This resulted in bills to 1,100,000 Americans for an additional $84,600,000 in taxes. Another 700,000 Americans found the math check put $42,200,000 back in their pockets.

Then too, IRS selects returns for audit. IRS Commissioner Russell C. Harrington says three out of every four don't have even a small mistake, and of the remainder, tax changes from detailed audit are often insignificant.

But big errors do pop up, and so do odd ones. One taxpayer filed a return in which he sought to deduct contributions to Hialeah race track. Another taxpayer claimed six dependents, whose names were all different. "Are you sure you understand what dependents are?" asked an agent. "Yes, sir," was the emphatic answer, "They're good friends you can depend on to lend you money when you need it."

Also listed as dependents on returns each year are dogs, cats, horses, even monkeys and birds.

Wise from long experience, the taxmen try to concentrate on well-known trouble areas. Returns for audit investigation may be chosen by type of return, business or occupation, or size of income. Also, a particular profession or business may receive special attention one year, and another the next.

In one recent year this auditing program accounted for nearly $1,400,000,000 in additional taxes and penalties.

"I think I can say the would-be tax cheat today faces as great a hazard as ever in our history," says Harrington.

Still, the income tax man is not out "to get" anybody, says Harrington, pointing out that in 1957 refunds were sent out on 400,000 audited returns. Altogether, in 1959, nearly three million returns got the eagle-eye treatment.

By and large, taxmen say they are well satisfied with taxpayers. Most returns are filed on time —a large number on the last day —and are legibly filled out.

Every now and then a taxpayer brightens the annual work load. One taxpayer, who owed $20.64, tendered a $20 bill and eight trading stamps. IRS nixed the stamps, which are worth about eight cents apiece.

Another filer apologized for extra haedaches caused by his forgetting to include his W-2 form with his return. Along with the W-2 he sent in two aspirin tablets.

One citizen, apparently misdirecting his federal and municipal returns, wrote the Louisville IRS office: "You will find that I sent the city of Paducah to you. Please return at once, so I can send it to the right place."

A few people every year write in to claim the dollar or less which IRS keeps in its till if an individual's refund is, for instance, only 79 cents. "It costs lots more than a buck to handle this, so we don't encourage it," said a taxman.

After verification and audit, if there's some question about a return, it may lead to an informal conference with a review officer. If an amount remains in dispute the issue can go right up to federal court. The taxmen claim the majority of victories—IRS stepped up to bat 23 times before the Supreme Court last year and won all cases. The United States Tax Court, though, is the main battle ground. Last June, it had pending some 11,000 cases involving more than 1½ billion dollars in taxes.

IRS is fascinated with the magic of computers. Harrington is pushing for more, bigger and better brains to get more done quicker. With such equipment, he hopes to eventually set up a permanent tax account for each taxpayer.

Nowadays, IRS does it auditing in a 20-month cycle. But after a return is filed, you have three years to discover errors in it and file for a refund. The government has six years to collect on taxpayer errors.

When your return is through processing, it becomes part of the archives of the United States. It goes under guard into one of 15 warehouses scattered about the country. After six or seven years, unless it's a return the taxmen may want to refer to again, it's burned.

A SUGGESTION FOR THE HOUSEHOLD MANAGER

The simplest method of doing your household accounting is with a Farmers checking account. You have a record of every deposit — you can immediately tell what you have left to spend from your check stubs — and every check is both a record and a receipt of every expenditure you make. Many families have joint "husband and wife" checking accounts, and many housewives have individual checking accounts. We welcome both types of accounts here at Farmers.

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—With Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev talking tough again another uncertainty is being accentuated in the long list confronting American business men today.

Earlier views that the May 16 summit conference in Paris would be largely a do-nothing or hold-the-line meeting are being revised to include the possibility of fireworks.

The general threat to international relations is worrisome to everyone. For businessmen there are some added specific uncertainties based on both this and on the increasingly troubled outlook for trade here and abroad.

Khrushchev's anti-American tirade Thursday may have been largely for home consumption. But it could still leave its deposit of nervousness in business thinking and planning here until the outcome of the summit meeting is clearer.

There are other uncertainties with overseas tinges.

They include rising imports, continuing loss of gold, stepped-up campaigns of manufacturers of other lands to capture more of the American market, increasing competition of foreign goods with ours in many of the world markets, and the still troublesome hangover of restrictions on American goods that many other nations impose.

American manufacturers are well aware these days that foreign competition is growing tougher.

Imports in March ran 5 per cent ahead of the previous month and of a year ago. In earlier estimates government forecasters had looked for imports to hold about the same this year as last, while exports rose.

Exports also rose in March to a bit more than 1½ billion dollars and were 279 million dollars more than imports.

But a bigger margin than that is needed if the American goal of markedly stepping up net income from abroad is to be achieved. A bigger surplus of exports over imports is needed to offset the net outflow of dollars and gold abroad, swelled by foreign aid, tourism, and private investments, as well as imports.

The outflow of gold increased during April, although still well below the disturbing volume of the two previous years.

Imports still hold strongly to raw materials. But manufactured goods are pouring in at a greater rate.

Many American manufacturers are likely to step up the complaints they have been making to Washington about the invasion of home markets. The chief gripe is that labor costs abroad are lower, giving Americans a price disadvantage.

And Americans have been increasing their protests to federal officials over the trade barriers they still encounter in other lands. There has been considerable lowering of these in the last year. But quotas and high tariffs are still troublesome, and—according to U.S. businessmen—often prohibitive.

There'll be plenty to talk about at Paris, if the Berlin crisis palls.

The Second Sunday In May—

Every Mother In The Land Has At Least One Thing In Common

(Reprinted from "Aramco World," a publication of the Arabian American Oil Company)

One of the newest American family holiday traditions—observance of Mother's Day on the second Sunday of May—actually is one of the world's oldest. It had its origin in the ancient Greek worship of Cybele, "great mother of the gods," was recognized with diminishing importance during the early and middle years of Christianity; then all but disappeared until a half century ago when it was given new vigor in Philadelphia and spread throughout the nation and to many parts of the globe.

Today, it is observed as one of the most important holidays of the year in Vienna, ranks high in importance in Australia, is commemorated throughout South America and all other Spanish-speaking areas, rates three days of special notice in England, and in the United States annually causes the year's worst traffic jams with family cars headed for Grandma's for a day-long visit.

The Greeks, and later the Romans, both celebrated the day on the Ides of March. The holiday called Hilaria was the Roman counterpart of the Greeks' Feast of Cybele. The ceremonies were marked by feasting, music and dancing, but were not conducted in honor of earthly mothers. After the dawn of Christianity, the fourth Sunday of Lent was dedicated to "Mother Church," the Christian religion. Some early Christians also venerated the Madonna on this day.

In 17th-century England, Mid-Lent Sunday became known as "Mothering Day," a day on which apprentice boys who lived within traveling distance of their homes were allowed to return to their families for a visit. When an apprentice was "going-a-mothering," it was customary for him to carry home a simnel cake as a gift. This was a plum pudding encased in a hard crust. If the trip were too long, the apprentice was expected to send home a letter of felicitation, usually a missive that had to be penned for him by a professional letter-writer or scrivener.

Mother's Day, as it is known now, however, had its legal origin in 1908. Two years previously, Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, had suffered the loss of her mother. During memorial services in 1907, Miss Jarvis discussed with friends the possibility of having a day set aside for the remembrance of mothers and during the ensuing year succeeded in interesting several influential groups in the idea. As a result, the city of Philadelphia proclaimed the second Sunday of May 1908, Mother's Day.

By 1912, the idea had spread as far as Texas. Texas' governor instituted a custom that year of pardoning worthy prisoners as well as proclaiming the day in honor of motherhood. The next year, Texas was joined by Pennsylvania and Nebraska in memorializing Mother's Day. Nebraska also designated it a Flag Holiday.

Meanwhile, the idea had spread across the ocean to England. In addition to the Sunday observance, since 1913 schools in that country conducted special ceremonies on the preceding Friday, and business firms honored mothers on the preceding Saturday.

President Woodrow Wilson, in 1914, proclaimed the second Sunday in May Mother's Day in perpetuity and succeeding presidents have followed the custom of issuing special proclamations directed toward its national observance.

For many years thereafter, Miss Jarvis devoted her energies and her personal funds to efforts to dedicate Mother's Day to the lofty purposes she had envisioned. Miss Jarvis lived well into the era when Mother's Day had become a national tradition. She died in Philadelphia in 1948, penniless as the result of her life-long crusade.

On May 8th, this year, white or pink carnations appearing in buttonholes in memory of departed or living mothers will be tangible evidence to the success of Miss Jarvis' life work. Millions of families, however, reunited on this special day will signify the deeper spirit of the occasion—the heart of the hearth is Mother.

Robert Whitcomb of Champaign, Ill., writes, "Most of your correspondence comes from people who have been heroes. On this hand I expected to be a hero, but wound up a bum. I regret to say that I would double six spades again with the same hand and I wonder if you or anyone would be smart enough to pull out that king of spades as your opening lead?"

Bob is wrong about one thing. Many of my correspondents tell of their own misadventures and I simply refuse to print them. It is dangerous for a columnist to go so far as to criticize an anonymous East or West and if I should criticize a real person all his friends would get mad at me even if he didn't mind.

In this case I can discuss Bob's tough luck. I can't blame him for doubling the six spade contract, and I refuse to discuss the bidding sequence that produced the slam bid. There is no formula for bidding a hand with 8-5-0-0 distribution and North's diamond void was just what South needed.

As for the one lead to beat the slam, I assume that all you readers have noted that all Bob had to do was to drop the king of spades on the table and South would be held to 11 tricks.

All I can say is that if I were South and anyone made that lead against me I would feel that mayhem or even homicide would be justified.

Pastrano Wins Ten-Rounder Over Johnson

Pastrano, a light heavyweight returning to the ranks of the heavyweights for another crack at the man who beat him here last July, used a fast jab to keep Johnson, from Philadelphia, off balance during the late part of the nationally televised fight.

Johnson, who has a devastating punch, concentrated his attack on Pastrano's body but could not get close enough to make the strategy work against his 24-year-old opponent.

Johnson, who came in at 188 pounds, now has an 18-5 record while the win gave Pastrano a 53-8-5 mark.

Judge Walter Beck gave it to Pastrano 48-45, Judge Walter Buchrop had it 48-43 in favor of the 178-pound Florida boxer and Referee Don Asbury scored it 49-46 in favor of Pastrano.

The Associated Press card scored it 48-44 in his favor.

Pastrano said before the fight he wanted to go back into light heavyweight contention in the hopes of getting a title shot. He now is ranked third in that division.

Baseball Vows All-Out Fight Against Kefauver

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Organized baseball vowed Friday an all-out fight against the bill proposed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) that would put the sport under the antitrust laws.

Ford Frick, baseball commissioner, termed the Kefauver bill "vicious, discriminatory and disastrous" at a press conference.

"This bill is absolutely unacceptable because it goes beyond antitrust exemptions and attempts to spell out the operating rules for baseball. It is the most harmful bill for baseball ever proposed," he said.

Frick did make one concession. He said it would be perfectly acceptable to baseball if it were placed in the same category as football, basketball and hockey, with the same restrictions.

"I think the bill embracing football, basketball and hockey is a good one," he said. "If they treat baseball the same way, they'd have a more acceptable bill. It okays their draft, exempts them from specified television restrictions and makes no limitation of player control."

"Remember this would be a federal law," said Frick, referring to Kefauver's bill. "Once it passes its for perpetuity. If passed, it would change the whole structure of baseball. It would result in the elimination of the minor leagues and a financial loss to the men who through the years have supported minor league operations through money, time, effort and ingenuity."

The Kefauver bill would limit a club to control of 100 players, give drafted players a team choice, and stipulate new rules for future major league status conflicting greatly with the present code.

The 65-year-old baseball leader, making no attempt to conceal his anger, took apart the bill, proposal by proposal.

SEEK BIGGER SITE

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—The Boston Patriots of the American Football League will not train at St. Anselm's College as originally planned, it was announced Friday.

Father Gerald McCarthy, the college president, said expansion of the club's training schedule involved more space than is available here. No site has been chosen.

Nixon Offers Congratulations To White Sox

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite what they did to the home team, four Chicago White Sox received a cordial greeting Friday at the capitol.

Even Vice President Richard M. Nixon had friendly handshakes and conversation for pitchers Bob Shaw and Herb Score, first baseman Roy Sievers and Ted Kluszewski.

Nixon doesn't hide the fact he roots for the Washington Senators, and only Thursday night Shaw was the winning pitcher and Sievers hit a home run as the White Sox won a 5-3 game from the locals.

The welcome was easier for Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), who was host at lunch for the Chicago visitors. Douglas lives in Chicago.

And Sievers made it easier for Nixon. The vice president was a Sievers fan before Washington traded Roy to Chicago this spring—and still is.

Lakers, Pollard Part Company

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)— The Minneapolis Lakers and Coach Jim Pollard came to a cordial parting of the ways Friday, leaving the Los Angeles-bound club free to bid for Boston's Bill Sharman (its new coach).

Pollard asked owner Bob Short for a long-term contract but was told there are too many hazards in pro basketball to permit one.

The former Laker playing great then told newsmen, "I have no interest in coaching pro basketball" under the circumstances.

While he has made no public statement of his coaching preference, Short clearly would welcome Sharman as a replacement.

He is a big favorite on the West Coast, where he starred with Southern California before joining the Celtics. A master jump shooter, Sharman has been one of the premier stars in the National Basketball Assn. for years. He is 33.

Alabama will play its first three 1960 football games under lights with Georgia, Tulane and Vanderbilt as the opposition.

Boudreau Obtains Craft As Coach

CHICAGO (AP)— New Chicago Cub Manager Lou Boudreau Friday obtained as coach a man who replaced him as pilot of the Kansas City A's in 1957, Harry Craft.

Craft, now supervisor of scouts for the A's, will join the Cubs Sunday as a replacement for Lou Klein, one of two coaches Boudreau is dropping from the staff of his predecessor, Charley Grimm.

Boudreau also is seeking a replacement for pitching coach Charlie Root and it may be Jim Turner, now Nashville manager and former pitching coach for the New York Yankees.

Cub Vice President John Holland said both Klein and Root would be offered other jobs in the Cub organization.

Only Grimm coaching holdover is El Tappe, installed by Boudreau as his first base coach.

WILL RETAIN SIZE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)— The nine-member Southern Conference decided Friday against expanding and, in effect, turned down bids for membership from East Carolina and Mississippi Southern colleges.

The conference adopted the recommendation of its executive committee, which suggested the loop retain its size for the present. The conference decided it next would consider applications at the May, 1961, meeting.

IESA Sectional Honors To Turner Thinlies

Coach Paul Keller's Jonathan Turner heavyweights and lightweights captured top laurels in the I.E.S.A. Sectional track and field championships Friday afternoon on a damp and chilly JHS track.

Turner bested 40 other schools to qualify 15 boys for the state finals at Niantic May 14. Excluding Turner, there were 20 schools entered in both classes.

The times were very slow although the track was in fair shape after rain fell on it most of the day. The slow times were due to the fact that most of the races were run against a strong wind.

Turner, who won the heavyweight sectional in 1959 and placed second in the lightweight division, qualified seven heavyweights and eight lightweights for the showdown next weekend.

Henricks of Mt. Sterling made a fine showing in the lightweight class, winning two blue ribbons besides anchoring the winning shuttle relay team. Moehring of Delavan also had a pair of firsts.

COLLEGE TRY—Don Zimmer almost turns in the play of the day against his former teammates, the Los Angeles Dodgers, at Wrigley Field in Chicago. The Cubs' third baseman moves far to his left for a slow grounder hit by Tommy Davis. Zimmer, who was never charged with not trying, gets to the ball all right, picks it up cleanly and gets off the throw to the plate. The trouble is that the throw is wide, permitting Wally Moon, who continues to hit well, to score from second base. Zimmer gets E for effort and an error.

Steve came in before two and Rose, who had been watching for him, took him into the study. She asked, "You remember her, don't you, Karen Jackson?"

"I'm not likely to forget her. What's she doing here?"

She said, "You wouldn't know this; you haven't seen them except here, and when Pete was in the hospital. But she left him quite a while ago. He hadn't—and hasn't—any idea where she was. I had one card and a letter from her. I promised to let him know if I heard, but now I've sworn to her I won't tell him she'd here, and that you won't either."

Rose took him in and he asked, "Remember me?"

"Of course, Dr. Jennings. It wasn't so long ago . . ."

He listened, looked, thumped, listened some more, asked innumerable questions, went to wash his hands, came out and said, "I'm putting you in the hospital, Mrs. Jackson."

She asked faintly, "Why?"

"I want some tests. And you'll be better off there. Rose is away all day, most days."

"But," she argued and the tears started to crawl down her cheeks. "I can go back to New York. I shouldn't stay here—"

"I'm not trying to alarm you," Steve said, "but I believe that any doctor you consult in New York would hospitalize you . . . so why not here, where you have friends? And if you want me for your physician, you'll have to do as I say." He smiled. "I'm not being tough," he added gently, "but I can't be responsible otherwise, nor can Rose. If you won't go to the hospital, it's only fair that I—or Rose—notify your husband."

She was whiter than white. "But I've left him," she said.

"You aren't divorced?"

"No."

"Then he is still the proper person to notify. . . . Well?"

"All right," she said. "I'll go."

Downstairs, Rose asked, "Well?"

He shook his head. "I'm not sure." He stopped as they heard Karen coughing. Then he said, "I want to put her through the tests—X-rays, sputum."

"Oh, no!" said Rose.

"We have to be sure. I'll get her a private room—as a matter of fact one of my patients—you know old Bob Lake, don't you?—is being discharged this afternoon. I'll use your phone now."

"Steve, I don't think she has much money."

"Hospitalization?"

"Pete had when he was there—but that's something else again."

He looked at her and smiled. "Well," he said, "one more thing for you to worry about. Take it easy."

* * *

When she went back upstairs Karen asked, "What did he say—not that you'd tell me."

"Just rest, tests, X-rays," said Rose.

"Did he say I had t.b.?"

"No, Karen."

"But the questions . . . how much did I cough, did I run a temperature—"

"It's routine; you've had pneumonia—"

Karen said drearily, "Nowadays it doesn't kill you. They arrest it."

She turned her ravaged face into the pillow. Rose pulled up a slipper chair, took Karen's hand and held it. And then Karen said, "He mustn't find out."

"Pete? If you are really ill, he'll have to know."

"I couldn't stand having him sorry for me," Karen said.

Rose thought, incredulous: She is in love with him. She said nothing, but Karen went on. "When I went to see Mark, I told him I hadn't been in love with Pete for a long time. I told you that, too."

"Yes."

The color was bright in Karen's face now. She had a brittle vivacity, which overrode her weakness. She said, "Almost everything I've said isn't true." My parents aren't dead. What I was trying to decide when I came here was could I—did I dare—go home."

"But, Pete—?"

"Oh, he knows they're alive," said Karen. "And the old man in Italy. He isn't my godfather, Rose."

"Karen, please, you're just tearing yourself to shreds."

"I met him in Chicago," said Karen. "He was, maybe, 60. He had all kinds of money and a wife who wouldn't divorce him. He did want to marry me, Rose; and he was good to me. My parents said, I needn't ever come home."

"Why did you go to Italy, this time?"

"Louis is old . . . he's alone. I thought maybe I could stay there." She looked up. "You're thinking: Until he died and I might inherit from him?"

Rose said honestly, "Something of the sort, yes."

"It's true enough. I couldn't have married him if he'd asked me. Pete said, no matter what happened he wouldn't give me a divorce—but still I could stay in Italy." She laughed, "Louis hardly knew me. Oh, in a far-off, courteous way like a man in a pleasant fog. He called me by name, gave me a big room over the gardens, put a car at my disposal. Nights we had dinner together. He has children and grandchildren. They're going to visit him in the spring. There's a manservant who watches every move he makes. All the servants distrusted me, with reason. Anyway, it was evident from the first he had no need of me, none at all. Then—I'd had a cold on and off for months—it got worse and turned into pneumonia."

Rose said, "I'm so sorry, Karen."

"I don't mind your being sorry. Still you never had much use for me before," said Karen.

75 Years Ago—Lynnville Sunday School Picnic

JAMES E. LAZENBY, 82, of 333 East College avenue, is the boy seated at left hanging onto his straw skimmer as this photograph was taken in 1885. The occasion was the Lynnville Methodist Sunday school picnic held in Allison's Grove north of Lynnville.

Dr. J. M. Huckstep, standing at left, was the Sunday school superintendent and Lynnville's zesty correspondent to the Jacksonville Journal. The second bearded man is Rev. Turner. (I never heard him called any way else, Lazenby says) and the proud owner of a new buggy whip is Alonzo Angelo, then the top baritone soloist in these parts.

Here's Lazenby's identification of those pictured:

Second row: Jessie Huckstep, Annie Lazenby, the other Reese girl, Susie Dickinson, George Watson, Robert Coates, Prince Coates, Glenn Shirtcliff and Annie Murphy.

In the back—Dr. Huckstep, Nettie Shirtcliff, Rose Riley, Annie Angelo, Jessie Dickinson, Anna Coates, Ella Watson, Miss Turner (she was the preacher's daughter and I don't remember ever hearing her called anything except Miss Turner), Rev. Turner, Percie Fisher, Bessie Johnson, Dora Landes, Ida Lazenby, Lizzie Coumbes, Lou Ranson and Alonzo Angelo.

"We had a Sunday school picnic every year in June or July," Lazenby recalls. "Quite a few of the families would attend and would bring basket lunches that we spread on the ground. There weren't any tables or seats at the picnic grounds of those days. I don't remember who the photographer was, but I'm sure he was from Jacksonville.

"So far as I know, I'm the only one left. I've lost track of the Reese girls and they may still be kicking around, somewhere."

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

It had to happen. With everything getting to be designed more and more for us lazy folks of the world . . . such as push-button windows on cars, and TV sets you can tune without getting up out of the easy chair . . . a British company has now come up with the last word in laziness . . . a push-button bed. According to newspaper accounts, the bed is equipped with devices for opening and closing windows and shades, and lowering and raising either end of the mattress . . . all without leaving the comfort of the down. And it's loaded with such other night-time "necessities" as a tape-recorder, push-button room lights, and a mink spread. Sounds like a dreamer's dream, all right, but there's just one thing the inventors failed to mention . . . they forgot to say whether or not you can sleep in it.

The local genius dropped in with the "secret" of how to stay within the budget . . . live as economically the first few days AFTER payday as you did the last few days BEFORE. But, of course, the real "secret" of economical living, whether you're paying for a service or buying a product, is to get the most for your money. Getting dependable quality service or merchandise is one sure way of doing that. For auto repair and used cars that will give you your "money's worth," see us. E. W. BROWN, 406 South Main. ## Twister Unroofs Barn On Farm South Of Nortonville

A twister with powerful gales passed over the south section of Morgan county about 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, unroofing a barn one mile south of Nortonville, and delivering a heavy barrage of rain and hail.

Half of the roof of a barn at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Koehler, south of Nortonville, was wrenched loose by the storm, part of it blowing against the house. Some of the debris knocked over a fence.

Mrs. Koehler said she heard a loud crash as the barn roof was lifted by the wind.

Mrs. Lowell Wells, correspondent for the Journal Courier at Nortonville, said the village was struck by a hard wind but that no damage was reported there.

The twister south of Nortonville occurred at a time storm warnings were out in southern Illinois and adjacent states.

In the Murrayville area heavy rains drenched the fields, dropping in places at least two inches.

Further south and west Greene County cities experienced heavy rains and severe electrical storms. White Hall reported numerous tree limbs were down

Extensive damage was also reported in the Carrollton area, although no injuries were reported.

Two reports of damage were from the city itself. A tree was blown down and fell on the Ted Fehl residence, owned by Robert Tucker, on fifth street. The roof of the house and the front porch were damaged.

A tree was also down on the O. H. Lovekamp porch in the south part of Carrollton.

A cattle barn at the Chester Gourley farm on the southwest edge of Carrollton was damaged beyond repair, and some hog houses were also damaged.

Four buildings were damaged on the Henry Meske farm southwest of Carrollton.

On the Jake Turner farm northeast of Carrollton a metal machine shed was completely demolished. The barn and a corn crib were also damaged. In addition a tree, which had been uprooted by the wind, fell on a car port attached to the house, badly damaging it. Only minor damage to farm machinery was reported.

A falling tree knocked the chimney off the house on the Omar Good farm near Wrights. A corn crib was also damaged there. The roof was blown off a barn at the Lee Doyle farm, which is in the same area.

The damaged at Carrollton was caused by high winds, no tornado being reported. It has not been definitely established whether the rural damage was caused by a tornado or just high winds.

Rainfall in the Jacksonville area as measured at the WLDS transmitter was .22 of an inch.

A tree limb was reported as being down on wires at the intersection of Marion and Church streets about 3:10 p.m., and telephone wires were down in the 200 block of north Webster street about 4 p.m.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV-Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bette Davis says he changed her whole life.

The Gary Coopers and Merle Oberon meet at each other's houses to exercise before the TV set.

Gilbert Roland, Francis X. Bushman and many other stars swear by him.

The man who exacts this homage is a hard-muscled, wavy-haired health zealot named Jack Lalane. His exercise show appears seven days a week on local KTTV and 12 other big-city stations, and his following is avid.

"Take Bette Davis," he suggested. "She let herself get fat and sloppy; her career slid and she didn't care. One morning she was turning the TV dial and happened upon my show. Somehow, I talked her into taking part.

"She swears that I made her whole life over. She got her figure back and now she looks terrific. She's interested in life again."

Bette's fan letter was one of the thousands Lalane has received—"I've got 25 girls who do nothing but answer letters." Exercise shows are not new to TV, but the quality of Lalane's pitch apparently is.

"I do everything I possibly can to get the viewer up out of his chair and down on the floor," he said. "I spend much of my time trying to think of new ways to cajole them, plead with them even intimidate them to rebuild their bodies. I even have the children drag their mothers out of the kitchen."

Lalane is convinced Americans eat miserably and exercise too seldom. Having gotten his message to the housewives, he now wants to corral the indigent males with a nighttime show.

"Most men are active in sports until they leave school," he remarked. "Then they get into a job and they let their bodies go to seed. It's criminal. I'm going to do everything I can to stop it."

Lalane himself is up at 5 a. m. for a run through the hills with his dog, spends an hour or two in the gym and eats sparely with accent on fish ("the one food man hasn't been able to contaminate"). He doesn't advocate such a spartan life for his viewers. "The right kind of food and even 15 minutes of exercise a day will be enough to renew their bodies," he said.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

"If this wasn't the funniest show of the year, it's going to take some doing to top it." A TV show described in this way by the "voice" of the entertainment industry, "Variety," deserves to be shown again. And that's just what happens May 18 when CBS-TV rebroadcasts the highly-acclaimed "Jack Benny Special" of last November. Along with Benny himself, the show features such other top TV personalities as Danny Thomas, Raymond ("Perry Mason") Burr, the singing McGuire Sisters, and the Marquis Family of trained chimpanzees.

"Variety's" was not the only voice heard in praise of the show's original broadcast. The New York Daily News called the antics of the Marquis Chimps "one of the funniest episodes in the history of (TV) comedy." Another comment from "Variety" sums up critical reaction to the show, saying it "can pick up all the marbles and an armful of Emmies. For pure unadulterated comedy, it has had few equals in any (TV) season." And for "pure unadulterated" enjoyment of TV, the new 1960 RCA Victor has few equals. RCA engineers have combined the latest electronic advances and beautiful decorator cabinets into a TV set with the finest in picture and sound. Come in and see it soon.
